RAINCOAT MAKERS NOW OUT

One thousand raincoat makers in Greater Boston were ordered out in a general strike by I. W. W. leaders at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The general strike order was issued by the strike committee of local No. 190 of the Raincoat Maker's Union, I. W. W., as a result of the alleged lockout of 550 I. W. W. members during the past twenty-four hours.

The strike had been ordered for Monday next, but leaders of the local union claimed the issue was precipitated by the manufacturers in locking out the I. W. W. employes.

The strike call was printed in many languages. It read:

GENERAL CALL FOR STRIKE.

Friday, Feb. 7, 1913, 2 p. m.

One thousand raincoat makers vote to strike for the betterment of their conditions. Come down and join our ranks. March to our headquarters at No. 93 Stanford street.

Strike Committee,
Local No. 190, I. W. W.

Giovannitti to Lead.

It was announced at headquarters this noon that a dispatch had been received from Arturo Giovannitti that he would arrive soon to lead the striking raincoat makers in their cause.

The striking raincoat makers are not in any way connected with the striking garment workers, 5,000 of whom were ordered out last Monday. Neither are they affiliated with the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, 12,000 of whom threaten to strike in this city.

Both of these organizations are chartered by the A. F. of L., while the Raincoat Makers' Union carries a charter of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Four Shops Yield.

Four additional firms settled with the striking garment workers today, placing 150 more operatives back at work. The firms which settled today were the Boston Pants Company, F. K. Haber, Wehner & Cohen and "Mitchell the Tailor," of Providence, who has his goods made in Boston.

The Boston Pants Company and F. K. Haber are the first ready-made clothing manufacturers to settle. All other settlements that have been made to date were other custom tailors or special order houses. This fact was the cause of much congratulation at the strike headquarters, as almost all the 4,000 who still remain on strike are employed on ready-made clothing.

Samuel Zorn, chairman of the union strike committee, declared that negotiations are under way for settlement with other houses. He is confident that before another week's end the majority of the

TWO THUGS HURL BOY OFF BRIDGE

The police today searched for two thugs who assaulted Charles D. Yoter, a sixteen-year-old messenger boy of No. 152 Emerson street, South Boston, as the boy was on his way home from the Washington Theatre, late last night. The men demanded money from the boy and then threw him twenty feet down from a railroad viaduct, when he landed senseless between the tracks. He is now in critical condition at Grace Hospital. The boy said today:

I was working until half past six as messenger for the Western Union Telegraph Company; then I went to a theatre. I was on my way home on the Cove street bridge, on Cove and Allnutie avenue. I noticed two men follow me all the way from Kneeland street, but did not pay any attention to them. When I got on the bridge one of them asked me for a quarter. I said: "I have not a nickel."

Then the other came up from behind, grabbed me by the neck, struck me in the face, called me a liar; one of them pressed his hand in my mouth and then both of them lifted me and threw me over the bridge.

The last thing I remember was the thud, but I was senseless then, and I remember it only like a faint dream. I must have fallen on my face. The next thing I knew was that I was coming to, and crawled up on the rocks and pebbles and cobblestones to the platform of the American Express office, and a fellow let me use the telephone and I asked for an ambulance, and here I am.

The boy's forehead was dressed and bandaged; his left cheek is swollen, and the nose is broken and will have to be operated on. His left knee and right hip are slightly bruised. The fracture of the nose and the injury to the forehead, and the slighter injuries in other parts, indicate that he must have fallen head foremost. The boy said further:

I only saw the face of one of the men. He seemed to be twenty years old; I would know him if I ever saw him; but I could not recognize the other, because it was dark, and I did not suspect anyone behind. They took two dollars from me. It was my own money.

The boy was visited by his father, Charles E. Yoter, last night. The physician in charge say that unless unsuspected complications set in he will recover.

QUASHED RUBBER CASE BECAUSE OF FAULTY PAPERS

The explanation of why Judge Dodge quashed the indictments against Warren R. Wheeler, Stillman Shaw and G. Alden Whitmore, growing out of the promotion of the North American Rubber Company, a $5,000,000 Boston corporation, came to day when it was discovered that Peyton Gordon, special assistant to Attorney-General Wickersham, left out an important part of the indictment, the connecting link between the defendants and the North American Rubber Company.

The papers in the case were not prepared in the office of the local District Attorney, Asa P. French, but were completed in Washington. They were prepared largely on the train between Boston and Washington by Mr. Gordon, who shortly afterwards left for a trip around the world.

HOLD IMPERSONATOR OF C. W. M'CORMICK

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 7.—For impersonating Cyrus W. McCormick, Jr., the Chicago multi-millionaire, whose name is alleged to have been signed to two checks with which he purchased two touring cars, John D. Fontaine, thirty-seven, a chauffeur from Chicago, was arraigned today charged with attempted grand larceny.

18 Snoring 'Hoboes' In Pullman Car Have 80 Cents for Fines

It was exactly 4 a. m. Eighteen "hoboes" were sound asleep in a sidetracked Pullman in the Charlestown yard of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

A squad of railroad officers and patrolmen tiptoed in with dark lanterns. The medley of snores sounded like a saw mill.

There was a rude awakening. It took three wagon loads to carry them through the frosty air to the station, where they were booked for trespassing on Boston & Maine property.

It was a picturesque and penitent squad that faced Judge Bregg in the District Court five hours later. Three who were found in a passenger coach last week were fined $20 and the other fifteen were each fined $10. But they all sailed down to Deer Island, for the total wealth among the eighteen was eighty cents. "Florida Frank" was the wealthiest. He had a plugged Canadian quarter. "Irasome Ike" had a toothbrush.

ANOTHER B. & M. LEASE BILL IS SENT TO HOUSE

The Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives today voted in favor of a suspension of the rules to admit for consideration a bill similar to the one defeated by the Legislature last year, providing for an outright lease of the Boston & Maine railroad to the New Haven, dissolution of the Boston Holding Company, a tunnel to connect the North and South stations, and for electrification of all steam roads in the metropolitan district.

This bill is on the petition of Representative Charles A. Jean of Wakefield, a Democrat. Governor Foss presented a similar proposition to the Legislature last year, except that provision was also made for a public utilities board. The bill was killed.

CHARGE FRAUD IN "HELP" AGENCIES

The establishment of a State Board to supervise all employment agencies of the State was advocated at a hearing before the legislative Committee on Legal Affairs. The present fees charged by private employment agencies were declared to be exorbitant, and charges were made that heads of some employment agencies have agreements with certain employers whereby the help furnished are discharged at frequent periods in order that new help may be supplied by the agency in order to increase the fees collected.

WILSON'S BROTHER FOR SENATE JOB

PRINCETON, Feb. 7.—Whether or not Joseph R. Wilson is to become an active candidate for secretary of the United States Senate will be decided by his brother, the President-elect. Joseph R. is visiting at the Governor's home. He has been boomed for the secretaryship by Senator Lake Lee of Tennessee, his home State.

PAWTUCKET STRIKER HELD IN $2,000 BAIL

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Feb. 7.—John Denis, one of the 400 striking weavers at the Hope Webbing Company's plant, was held in $2,000 for the grand jury by Judge Tuck in Pawtucket District Court today, after pleading guilty to chasing two girl operatives with a jackknife.

James Taudy, another striker, was fined $20. He was one of a score of pickets who tried to influence operatives to quit work.

TIMID N. Y. BURGLARS BLOW UP TWO SAFES

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Burglars early today showed their "fear" of New York policemen by blowing open a safe in a store within twenty-five feet of the fixed post of a policeman, and a few minutes later blowing open another in a store within one hundred and fifty yards of police headquarters. Nitro-glycerine was used in both cases. The yeggmen secured about $100 and some gold medals.

WITCH CITY TO PAY WOMAN COAL DEALER

The Salem City Council today voted an ordinance and bonding order for $25,000 to pay a judgment obtained against the city by Miss Charlotte Fairfield, head of what is known as the Independent Coal Company of Salem. Miss Fairfield sued the city for injuring the docks of her firm by dumping refuse so that coal barges had to unload at Beverly.

COLDEST DAY; MAN IS FROZEN

The coldest weather of the Winter gripped Greater Boston today and caused the first death from exposure recorded so far this season. The victim, John Jack, expired early today while being taken to the City Hospital in an ambulance.

At 7 a. m. the official temperature was down to ten degrees above zero. The previous low record for the Winter was thirteen above on January 9. The coldest day Winter was five below on January 12. So this variegated Winter of 1913 has yet to reach the low mark of its predecessor. Unofficial temperatures today ranged as low as three above zero at City Point.

"What We Had Coming."

The Weather Man has no apologies to make whatsoever. He says: "This is merely seasonable. It is only what we had coming to us."

His official forecast is not what you would call "a her one."

It reads: "Fair tonight and Saturday. Moderate to brisk westerly winds."

Not a word about warming up. Asked how long this ear-lapped weather will keep up, he replied:

"It will be about the same for a day or two."

John Jack, fifty-five, of No. 192 Harrison avenue, died on the way to the City Hospital, where he was being taken by the police. Jack had been standing outside his door nearly all night. When Patrolman Nelson of the East Dedham street station came by Jack told him that he was cold and felt ill. Nelson called the ambulance and it and Jack started for the hospital when Jack sighed and fell back dead. Medical Examiner Leary will perform an autopsy.

Very Cold in Suburbs.

Some of the thermometer readings from suburban points were:

City Point, South Boston, 3 above; Andrew square, 5 above; Dorchester and B streets, South Boston, 5 above; North Cambridge, 8 above; Harvard square, 7 above; East Cambridge, 8 above; Hyde Park, 13 above; Dedham, 10 above.

The coldest place in the United States at 8 a. m. today was patriotic Sheridan, Wyo., at 16 below. In happy contrast was Key West at 74. Greenville, Me., which has a cold-weather name, was New England's chilliest today, as yesterday, at 6 below. Rockland was warmest in New England at 18 above. New York City is 14 above.

THOMAS MAHER DIES IN BARBER'S CHAIR

Thomas Maher of Somerville died today, while being shaved in the barber shop of Philip Casey at No. 86 Court street. Death is thought to have been caused by heart failure. Maher was sixty-nine years old. He lived at No. 97 Partridge street, Somerville. He was employed by Mark Dow on Howard street.

LICENSED, WOULD-BE BRIDE FLED

Margaret D. Thornton, daughter of Alvan D. Thornton of the South End, refused to Boston today after leaving David Loth of Dorchester in the office of City Clerk Thomas F. Locke of Biddeford, Me., yesterday with a marriage license in his hand. The couple had been refused a license to marry at Portland.

There is much mystery over the sudden flight of Miss Thornton back to her home.

The girl is twenty-one and wealthy in her own right, having property valued at $30,000. Four years she has been in society and confidential clerk of Levin, to give his occupation as a note broker.

Friends of the Thornton girl know of the attachment that had sprung up between the clerk and her employer, but they say that Miss Thornton was to wed a Harvard graduate, now at the university taking a post graduate course.

Miss Thornton is a musician. She has played the violin at many concerts at Cambridge and vicinity, where it is said she met the Harvard student. It is understood that no engagement exists between Miss Thornton and this young man, whose name is not divulged by the girl's friends.

Levin, having secured his license, planned to look for his bride-to-be only to find her on the "missing list." He started out to find her, enlisting the services of a local attorney, but it was not until some hours later that he received a telephone message from the girl dated Dover, N. H., stating only these few words: "Am on my way back to Boston."

Afterward it transpired that while Levin was getting the license the girl, for some unknown reason, got out of the back door of the license office, took an Atlantic Shore car to City square and went to Dover from there by trolley.

Before coming to Biddeford it appears that the couple had gone to Portland, where they tried to get a license, but the city clerk there refused to issue the paper because the girl admitted that she was only seventeen years of age. A telegram was received later from a woman claiming to be the mother of the girl, and the Portland clerk told her that she would first have to have her parents' permission before he would issue the license. Thereupon the couple disappeared.

STENOGRAPHER HAD A SEWING MACHINE

DENVER, Feb. 7.—State Auditor Kenehan was astounded when he saw an expressman installing a sewing machine in a private chamber of a Supreme Court Justice. "I don't have anything to do about four days out of the week," explained the pretty girl stenographer, "and I thought I might as well sew up here." Within an hour the sewing machine left the State House.

STORROW RETIRES FROM UNITED FRUIT

The News Bureau says today: "In order to secure more time to devote to his many public activities, James J. Storrow has resigned from the position of director and member of the executive committee of the United Fruit Company. His place has been filled by the election of his business partner, Hugh G. Leyick."

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 7.—Following the action of the Assembly, the Senate of the Nevada Legislature ratified the proposed amendment to the federal constitution for the direct election of United States senators, without a dissenting vote.

SOMERVILLE CHIEF ASSESSOR RESIGNS

George W. Perkins today resigned as chairman of the Somerville Board of Assessors on account of illness. He was appointed in 1904.

REV. GEORGE L. CADY, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, in conference today with District Attorney Pelletier on prison graft charges.

REV. GEO. L. CADY

Rev. George Luther Cady made a signed written statement today to the office of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier denying that he had "ever publicly accused any public official of graft." He also pleaded his calling as a clergyman as a reason for withholding the name of the leather merchant who was supposed to have told him the "prison management was being marked" double profits on leather for the past five or three years, for he trusted the confidence of the fellow and his knowledge of anything about leather."

The signed statement of the Rev. Mr. Cady follows:

My informant, whose name you seek, imparted the information to me not only as man to another man, but to me in my official and clerical capacity as a clergyman, and I gave him the solemn assurance that I would not disclose his name. For this reason I find it impossible to reveal it.

But he did not privately, as we have it publicly, accuse any public official of graft on the contrary, I have openly and repeatedly denied any knowledge of such graft or corruption in State's Prison."

(Signed) GEORGE LUTHER CADY.

District Attorney Pelletier immediately announced that he would discontinue further investigation. He said:

"In view of the statement I shall take no further action."

SENATE SUSTAINS FOSS SALARY VETO

The State Senate today sustained Governor Foss' veto of the bill to increase the salaries of the members of the Boston Licensing Board by a vote of 20 to 7. Ayes and nays were paired.

HALL MAY HAVE BEEN FARO DUPE

Investigation into Walsh's death may be renewed in more than casual manner.

More developments in the Walsh-Keliher-Coleman case are expected Monday when George W. Coleman, the convicted bookkeeper of the looted National City Bank of Chandler, comes to Boston again from Cranford jail. He will come to testify again before Congressman Robert O. Harris as master, for former Governor John L. Bates, receiver for the wrecked bank.

Coleman has already testified seven days in direct examination as to the bank funds into William J. ("Big Bill") Keliher received from him. Coleman sullied at his trial that Keliher received $185,000.

In his latest testimony he has accounted, in a statement known as "List A" for payments to Keliher totaling $160,500. This list was printed in the AMERICAN exclusively.

$24,500 Unaccounted For.

There is still a difference of $24,500 to be accounted for, so far as the total of "List A" and the original Coleman testimony go.

Coleman is expected to help Receiver Bates ascertain, if possible, where other money went which was taken from the bank, in addition to what Keliher got.

A startling development today was the news that the Southbridge Savings Bank scandal may be involved in the fake faro case. John A. Hall, the former cashier of that bank, who was sent to Charlestown State Prison for embezzling $750,000 of the institution's funds, was scheduled today to be questioned at the prison as to whether any of his pickings went the way Coleman's did.

At the request of Congressman Robert O. Harris, who is sitting as master in Receiver Bates' civil proceedings to recover some of the Coleman money, the AMERICAN prints today the following:

Mr. Harris' Statement.

Boston, Feb. 7, 1913.

At the morning of February 4, a reporter of the Boston AMERICAN came to my office and asked if I was acting as master in the Cambridge bank case. I replied that I was. He then asked if he could get from me some of the testimony that had been given before me. I told him "No," that it was a civil proceeding, that I was sitting as master and that the case was embalmed. He then asked

M'CABE QUITS IN THE CHELSEA LICENSE FIGHT

John J. McCabe, a member of the Chelsea License Commission, sent his resignation today to Mayor Edward E. Willard. A week ago the Mayor preferred charges of neglect of duty against McCabe and Wallace C. Lee, another member of the commission, and the hearing was to have been held at the City Hall at 9:30 a. m. today. Lee resigned yesterday, and in the mail this morning came the following letter from McCabe to the Mayor:

After the developments of a day and being fully cognizant that your charges can in no way be sustained, I still realize that unscrupulous persons may testify against me for malicious reasons. It is owing to that fact that I have, after consultation with my family, decided to hand you my resignation as a member of the license board, asking no absolution at your hands.

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. McCABE.

The resignation was accepted by the Mayor, and he has now two members to appoint to the board. James E. Pino, the third member, has thus far escaped having any charges preferred against him, and it is understood that he will remain for a short time, but it is stated around the City Hall that charges may be presented later in the event of his not resigning.

WALTHAM AND STONEHAM WOULD BE POSTAL BRANCH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Three more Massachusetts cities and towns are seeking to be brought under the postal service of larger centres in their vicinity. Stoneham and Waltham, some of whose citizens want them placed under the postal service of Boston, and Georgetown, which is trying to change its present postoffice into a substation of Haverhill, are the cases involved.

MEN'S DANCE AT WELLESLEY THIS EVENING

Wellesley College's first men-to-believe dance, which is also going down into college annals as the "Open A. B. C. dance," set the hearts of the seniors all aflutter today. The big event—really the biggest social event in the history of the college—begins at 8 o'clock tonight and will be attended by about 105 Harvard men and other collegians and the same number of Wellesley seniors.

After the first dance number the girls are to take their seats under placards which bear the letters of the alphabet. Miss A will sit under "A." Miss B under "B," Miss X under "X," and so on. This is a novel arrangement and prevents confusion and gives all the fellows the right pointers on where they can find the partners they desire.

A large number of Harvard students will go over to Wellesley tonight and many of them will spend the week-end in the town, attending the Glee Club concert tomorrow and the "open house" Sunday. So far as chaperoning is concerned, the job is off beginning tonight through Sunday night, as the faculty has been relieved in abating the usually strict rules.

HARVARD MEN HISS AND CHEER COLONEL

Roosevelt's name, uttered by E. A. Cutrell, instructor in government, before 300 Harvard classmen, evoked a storm of hisses, changing and cheers combined that increased with Mr. Cutrell's efforts to check it until he hit upon the mention of William J. Bryan's name. Instantly all the Harvard men present broke into a storm of cheering.

ANNOUNCE CAST FOR THE ISBEN PLAY AT TUFTS

The cast which is to present Ibsen's play, "An Enemy of the People," under the auspices of the Pen, Paint and Pencils Society of Tufts College has just been announced after two months of rehearsals. The cast is as follows:

Dr. Stockmann.....Clifton L. Scott, Newport, Vt.
Mrs. Stockmann.....Miss Octavia Chapin, Belford Peter.....Miss Corinne Moore, Hartford, Ct.
Petra.....Miss Alice Pendleton, Newton, N. H.
Morten.....Lt. Ruth Wallace, Fall River
Hovstad.....William Bowditch, Somerville
Billing.....Roger W. Bowditch, Somerville
Aslaksen.....Roger W. Bowditch, Somerville
Captain Horster.....Phillip C. Slade, Salem
Ejlif.....Walter B. Swan, Newport, Vt.
Morten.....Miss Octavia Chapin, '13, Medford.

Miss Octavia Chapin, '13, Medford, has a wide experience in dramatics during her entire college course. She is now president of the All-Around Society, the dramatic society of Jackson College.

Clifton L. Scott, '15, Newport, Vt., is a member of the Three R's Society, and, too, has been active in dramatics. Last year he played the leading part in "The Return of Hugh Junks," the junior class play.

Phillip C. Slade of Salem is business manager of the production. The exact date of the production has not yet been definitely decided. It will probably come shortly after Lent. Professor Leo R. Lewis of the music department has charge of the production.

JOSHUA COOLIDGE, IN A DRESS SUIT, BATTLES BLAZE

Joshua Coolidge proved himself a practical dress suit fireman as he destroyed the great coal shed on his estate on Cottage street, Watertown, with a loss of $2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge had just dressed for dinner when the fire started, supposedly from an over-heated stove.

Mr. Coolidge, who is a millionaire, ran out of the house in his evening clothes to help quench the blaze.

With an axe in hand he was seen chopping his way through doors, carrying buckets with the other firemen and directing the morale of a hose upon the flames.

He was the picture of a genuine self-organized fireman, but he wore instead of a uniform a full dress suit. When the fire was out he invited all the firemen inside, and joined them at coffee served by Mrs. Coolidge.

EAST BOSTON TUNNEL BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

Today was East Boston day before the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

Two bills were considered by the committee, both affecting East Boston. One, on petition of Representatives Benjamin F. Sullivan and Thomas J. Giblin of East Boston, abolishes the tolls in East Boston tunnel. The other, on petition of Representative Giblin, provides for the construction of a second tunnel to Boston.

Corporation Counsel Joseph J. Corbett of Boston, representing Mayor Fitzgerald, opposed both measures. Chairman Smith of the Finance Commission also opposed the bill to abolish the tunnel fees.

Judge Corbett, in opposition, said that he recognized the justice of the demand that the tolls be abolished, but said that it could not be done under the law, because of the conditions under which the East Boston tunnel was leased and the contract with the Boston Elevated which he said could not be broken by the Legislature. Chairman Sullivan took the same ground.

In support of the tunnel proposition, former Representative John F. Sullivan of East Boston, merged that Mayor Fitzgerald at one time had declared that he was in favor of the proposition, but that he "has hedged since."

BOY DEMANDS MORE CARE THAN GIRL TILL 21, SAYS DR. YOUNG

"It is more necessary that boys rather than girls be protected until they have reached the age of twenty-one—the marriageable age," declared Dr. Evangeline W. Young at a conference held by the Twentieth Century Club.

"Legislation helps to educate and the educational appeal is a powerful preventative of immorality," she said. "The further education of the people is necessary to place the responsibility where it belongs."

Dr. Young referred to bills that compel disenfranchisement of men where the law is broken relative to feeble-minded, imbecile or insane women.

FLONZALEYS GIVE SPLENDID CONCERT

A large crowd heard the Flonzaleys in their second concert of the season at Jordan Hall. The famous quartet, which practically spells perfection in all it does, was given an unusually hearty reception. Attractive selections from Mozart, Beethoven and Boccherini and playing up to the Flonzaley standard marked the performance. The Mozart piece was the quartet in B-flat major. An even greater attempt was the playing of the Beethoven selection, the quartet in A minor. Boccherini's quartet in C major was the final number.

PLAN TO DROP MANY BILLS IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Senator Gallinger today named the Senators who are to serve as the members of the legislative committee whose purpose is to determine how many bills can be safely dropped in the Senate for the remainder of the session. The committee comprises Senators Oliver, chairman; LaFollette, Root, Smoot and Cummins.

HOLY WAR IS NOW ORDERED BY THE TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 7.—A holy war throughout the whole Moslem world was proclaimed today by the Sheik ul Islam, chief priest of the Mohammedan church, at a meeting of the committee of national defence.

High priests of the Moslem faith in impassioned speeches declared that the Mohammed religion is menaced and called upon Mussulmans in Russia, Morocco, Algeria, India, Europe and Turkey to rise against the Christians. Although this is not the first time that the Moslems have been called upon to rise against the Christians, the present situation offers the most dangerous menace, because of the critical conditions. Famine and poverty prevail throughout the empire of Turkey as a result of the war, and Mohammedan priests are exhorting the followers of Mohammed to rise up, declaring that the "infidels" are responsible for the chastisement of Turkey.

The young Turk Cabinet of Grand Vizier Mahmoud Shevket Pasha is on the verge of collapse. Followers of Kiamil Pasha and Nazim Pasha are working for the overfall of the ministry, and a large section of the European troops is with them. It is for that reason that Enver Bey, the chief of staff, is transporting such heavy masses of Asiatic troops to the seat of war. The Asiatic Turks give better promise of loyalty.

Mohammedans in India have subscribed $5,000,000 for the Turkish war chest. It will not be donated to the government, but will be used for the purchase of Turkish government bonds.

May Renew Negotiations.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 7.—The Roumanian government today instructed its minister to Bulgaria to approach the Bulgarian government with a view to arranging the resumption of the negotiations between the two countries in regard to the frontier question and the settlement of Roumania's territorial claims. The Roumanian claim is to a strip of territory, which will extend her coast line on the Black Sea.

BLUE HILL AVENUE TRANSFER CHANGE

Beginning tomorrow, the general inward and outward street car transfer privileges now existing on Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, at Talbot avenue, will be transferred to the Franklin Park entrance on Blue Hill avenue. This change, in general transfer point from one inward car to another inward car, and from one outward car to another outward car, will not affect the existing transfer privilege at Blue Hill avenue and Talbot avenue from inward bound Blue Hill avenue cars to outward bound Talbot avenue cars, and vice versa. CANDIDATES ON THE FINAL DASH TO $40,000 GOAL

By THE CONTEST EDITOR.

Three weeks from today the AMERICAN'S great $40,000 Contest will be a thing of the past.

Candidates will need to speed up their subscription-getting efforts during this the final dash to the $40,000 goal.

Confidence is a good thing, but over confidence is extremely hazardous in a race of this sort. The only time to sit back and rest on your laurels will be after the contest ends on February 28.

It is absolutely impossible for any candidate to tell or even surmise, with any degree of accuracy, what any other candidate is doing or may do before the finish. The only way to play safe is to keep right on with your subscription-getting grind until the last bell rings February 28.

A few thousand or even a few hundred votes may make all the difference in the world when the final awards are being made.

A new vote list will be printed in next Sunday's AMERICAN. This will be the last one coming to support until after the contest closes and the winners are announced.

This is no time for dilly-dallying or for billing. It's a time for work—the hardest kind of subscription-getting work every hour of every day for the remaining three weeks.

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:
68¾ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:
67¾ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

SWIFT TESTS CONDITIONS OF KING'S PARDON

Attorney-General Swift was asked today by the Executive Council to give an opinion on the question of whether Cardello F. King, the promoter, can be granted a conditional pardon, with restrictions especially recommended by Governor Foss and Lieutenant-Governor Walsh. It is expected that the opinion of the Attorney-General will be the last step in the case which will lead up to King being freed by the Council next Wednesday under certain conditions, provided the latter are found to be legal.

The Council has already agreed to Governor Foss' plan for releasing King on the understanding that if he recovers his health he shall return to prison to serve out the balance of his term. The final action of the Council, which would follow a favorable opinion from the Attorney-General, will be to grant King a pardon which amounts to a parole, with all the conditions imposed by the Prison Commission and the additional restrictions desired by the Governor and Council.

BETRAYED BY TICKETS, ROE ADMITS THEFT

While being brought to police headquarters to be measured and photographed today, Winfield G. Roe, twenty-one, of No. 971 Blue Hill avenue, who was arrested last night during a concert in Jordan Hall for breaking and entering and larceny at the apartments of Miss Emma O. Pickard, No. 322 Hyde Park avenue, and the dwelling of F. J. Guyon, No. 569 Hyde Park avenue, confessed his guilt. He said he couldn't resist the temptation.

Roe is foreman for his stepfather, a contract painter, and had been employed in and about the Boston Homestead property on Hyde Park avenue and was furnished with keys which would unlock the doors of some of the suites which were being renovated.

His use of two tickets to gain his admission to a performance in Jordan Hall last night which had been stolen from Miss Pickard led to his arrest. Mrs. Pickard and Miss Catherine Bond occupy the apartment together. Plus, watches and other jewelry to the value of $200 was taken from them.

Clothing and jewelry valued at about $200 was taken from the dwelling of F. J. Guyon. All of the property was recovered, being found in a suitcase which was hidden in the cellar of a vacant Roe's home on Blue Hill avenue.

Roe will be in court tomorrow.

AROOSTOOK OFFICIAL SAYS HAINES ERRS IN STRIKE STATEMENT

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 7.—In a letter to President Todd of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, made public here, Arthur Holland of Concord, Mass., chairman of the Bangor & Aroostook executive board, replies to what in terms "erroneous statements" of Governor Haines and others, and sets forth the reasons why the company cannot pay the advance asked by its employes.

He points out that Governor Haines' comparisons of the Bangor & Aroostook with the Maine Central were based on last year's reports, whereas since the report was issued, the Bangor & Aroostook has come under new management, and sweeping economies have been effected, expenses of the general offices and salaries having been reduced $45,000 a year.

URGE PUNISHMENT OF CUBAN EDITOR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Arthur M. Beaupre, American Minister to Cuba, today was instructed by Secretary of State Knox to demand immediate punishment of the editor of the Cuba, which recently published a series of articles referring to Minister Beaupre as an embezzler and accusing him of taking bribes. While no attention usually is paid to attacks by foreign newspapers on diplomats, Secretary Knox considers the present instance so flagrant that the United States can do nothing but demand the punishment of the editor.

Two Merry Skaters in Throng at the Public Garden Today

Skating was really good on the Public Garden today for the first time. The roughness of the last few days has worn off, and the sport was at its best. At the noon hour the little pond was black with school boys and school girls, who brought their lunch along. And the older folk were not uncommon.

MRS. BOND SAYS HUSBAND WAS NEVER 'NAGGED'

I never nagged my husband.

I never kept my husband awake by scolding him for not giving me good bridge whist hands.

I could not have awakened him with a megaphone. He was deaf in one ear and he kept his good ear buried in a pillow.

I became acquainted with my husband by answering his advertisement for a housekeeper.—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bond, testifying today at East Cambridge in the suit brought by her husband, Charles G. M. Bond, for divorce.

Mrs. Elizabeth Collins Bond, a prepossessing woman of middle age, was the principal witness today before Judge Hall in the East Cambridge court in the suit for divorce which her husband, Charles G. M. Bond, president of the Climax Paper Company and a resident of Winchester, has brought against her.

She attracted a good deal of attention when she took the witness stand in response to her husband's testimony. She wore a lavender picture hat with large willow plumes, a purple gown with furs ornamented with violets, and her shoes were Blue color.

Mrs. Bond further testified that her husband on frequent occasions would hurriedly dress, leave the house and not return until daylight, and never say explanation.

DISSOLVE BOOT AND SHOE LAST TRUST TODAY

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—The Boot and Shoe Last Trust, fixing, it is alleged, the price of practically every last sold in the United States, was dissolved here today by the Federal Government in quick time.

Immediately following the filing of a civil anti-trust suit against the Trent-Arnold Hinge Last Company and numerous other last manufacturers, with whom it was allied by agreements, United States District Judge Arthur J. Tuttle entered an agreed decree terminating license agreements, so far as they fixed the price of unpatented lasts, and dissolving a club through which the alleged violation of the Sherman law was accomplished.

The decree, in effect, lays down the broad principle that it is unlawful to tie together patented and unpatented articles so as to fix the price of the unpatented commodity.

Massachusetts defendants to the suit were named as follows: Boston Last Company, Woodward & Wright Last Company, Campbell; George E. Belcher Last Company, Stoughton; Mawhiney Last Company, Brockton; Gilbert Last Company, Worcester; Marlboro Last Company, Marlboro; Nathaniel E. Arnold and George F. Atwood, North Abington; Thomas W. Gardner, H. S. Gardner and M. L. Wood, Lynn; Frederick Drew and Augustus A. Delano, Brockton; F. W. Simart, Beverly; W. E. Higgins, Worcester; L. C. Waldleigh and J. H. Hovey, Haverhill, and Fred Drew, Brockton.

MYSTERIOUS INTRUDER AT SOCIETY BALL

The scene is located in the beautiful ballroom of one of the swellest hotels. The occasion is an assembly ball, the most fashionable and exclusive of Boston's social functions. In the small hours of the morning when the gaiety is at its full height, the hangings which separate the ballroom from the entrance hall are separated by a narrow space and the fleeting face of an outsider is seen peeping through the aperture. The apparition scrutinizes no comment at first, but when the strange face appears again the assembly managers undertake to find out who it is that is thus rudely intruding on their privacy.

As they approach the entrance, the intruder, instead of retreating, boldly advances and takes a position in the dancing hall as though he had a right to be there. The managers ask him who he is and by what authority he has entered the hall, he pays no heed to their questions and when he makes a show of resistance to being crowded out the managers consider the propriety of calling some of their athletic associates to assist in ejecting the stranger.

They finally conclude to summon the police, but they are now informed that the intruder is a big city official. Preferring not to have trouble with so prominent a personage, the managers conclude not to resort to forcible measures, and after a time, in his own way, the distinguished intruder withdraws. This closed the incident, but the town is still talking about it.

W. J. O'MEARA, OF BURLINGTON ROAD, IS DEAD

W. J. O'Meara, general Eastern passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, died at his home in New York early today of pneumonia. Mr. O'Meara was one of the best known railroad men in New York, and was well known in Boston, as he lived here for several years, occupying the position of New England passenger agent of the Burlington. He was one of the brightest men of the younger railroad element and had a brilliant future before him. He was married only a few months ago. The Boston railroad men will have a meeting today or tomorrow to adopt suitable resolutions.

Wollaston Opens War on Chanticleers' Midnight Crowing

WANTED—QUICKLY.
Sure and certain method of preventing roosters from crowing. Write to Wollaston Civic Association.

At a meeting of the citizens of Wollaston to organize a new civic association to improve local conditions and foster a spirit of pride among the residents, the first important business transacted was the adoption of a resolution to stop the crowing of roosters at night in that vicinity.

W. K. Robinson was elected chairman of the meeting and George C. Curran secretary. The means to be taken to stop the Plymouth Rocks from signaling the Legborns of a new attack from the allied rat forces, especially in the neighborhood of midnight, were not discussed. But the resolution was passed unanimously, and the members adjourned one rile and nine determination whether they would use shotguns or aeroplanes in the way against the starry-and-all-night chanticleers of Wollaston.

JAIL, NO FINES, FOR 4 LONDON SUFFRAGETTES

LONDON, Feb. 7.—A sterner policy has been adopted by the government against suffragettes in an effort to break up the violent campaign of the militants. Four window smashers received stiff prison sentences today without the option of fines. They were Mabel Schofield, three months; Maud Brinkley, five months; Esther Hatton, three months, and Louise Russell, three months.

The women themselves have affected a change of front. Whereas they formerly insisted on serving prison sentences, they are now glad to have their friends pay their fines, where they have been imposed.

Snuff bombs are the latest weapons of the suffragettes. The militant women today mailed a small package to each member of the Cabinet which upon being opened released a spring that sprayed an ounce of snuff in the face of the opener.

CASSIDY SHOWS BILL TO BAR POISONS FROM CANDY BOUND TO WIN

Cassidy today tells how the National Confectioners' Association has indorsed an extremely important bill now before the State Legislature, to protect consumers from the use of poisonous or harmful minerals in candies.

This bill was introduced by Major Fitzgerald, and has the backing of the health department of the city. The favorable attitude of the confectioners, Cassidy believes, makes its passage certain.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Two important candy bills were given a hearing before the Committee on Public Health at the State House yesterday.

The National Confectioners' Association joined with the city health authorities in supporting the more specific of these bills.

Therefore, it is probable that the bill will be favorably reported and will become a law.

This marks the first great victory for the friends of pure food. The honest and reliable candy manufacturers appear to have gained control of the national association. It is a sign of the times, and marks the beginning of an epoch when no man in the business of making or selling foodstuffs will feel that he can afford to champion the right to harmfully adulterate that food, or to deceive the people in the food for which they pay their money.

It is sure to come. Consumers everywhere are demanding pure and honest food. More and more of the honest food dealers and manufacturers are joining hands to enforce the demand.

The bill upon which the National Confectioners' Association bestowed their approval reads as follows:

The Confectionery Bill.

"Whoever himself, or by his agent or servant, or as the agent or servant of another person, manufactures, sells, etc., any confectionery, containing or coated whole or in part with terra alba, barytes, paraffine, talc, ultramarine pulver or other added mineral substance or poisonous color or flavor, or other ingredient deleterious or detrimental to health, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than one hundred dollars."

Do not understand me as saying that that bill covers the ground and adequately protects children and grown-ups from adulterated candies. It does not. But it does help, and it does bar out some of the most dangerous ingredients.

The bill was not endorsed without reservation by the confectioners. They urged that the word "harmful" should be inserted, so that only "harmful mineral substances," and not all mineral substances, should be barred. That is, I believe, a good objection, and the bill will probably be rejected containing the word "harmful."

Health Department for It.

George A. Flynn of the Law Department of the city of Boston championed the bill. He stated the general reasons which led prompted Dr. Mullowney of the city health board to draw it up. Dr. Mullowney is attending the milk conference in New York, but will be heard if he so desires at a later hearing.

Walter H. Belcher then spoke. He said: I represent the National Confectioners' Association and I wish to say that we are not opposed to this bill. We believe in any bills that tend to the betterment of candy. We believe these bills should be in accordance with the national legislation on the subject. I question whether there is any need of such a bill as this—as most of the States and the federal government now have similar measures. It is doubtful whether candies mixed with poisonous or harmful minerals are now sold. But in any case we believe the idea of this bill is a good one.

With this the hearing on the candy bills was closed.

Poorer People Suffer.

A second bill, of equal or greater importance than the candy measures, came up at an afternoon session of the committee. This was Senate bill No. 104, the purport of which was to strike out of the law on the sale of diseased and unwholesome food the word "knowingly." This word makes it necessary to prove the dealer "knowingly" sold the diseased food before a conviction can be secured.

The bill was introduced by Joseph L. Johnson, Inspector of Animals and Provisions in the city of Cambridge. The first speaker was Edward P. Ayward, Cambridge City Solicitor. He said:

"The reason for this bill is that it seems impossible to get a conviction when the word 'knowingly' is in the law.

"I know one recent case of a dealer in fowl, who sold a diseased carcass. The inspector brought a case, but the dealer's defence was that he had not 'knowingly' sold the fowl. The judge said that with the word in the law he couldn't find the defendant guilty.

"When this phrase shall have been taken out of the act it will be up to the retailer to see to it that the wholesaler doesn't unload upon him this rotten food."

Inspector Johnson made an earnest and convincing speech. He said in part:

"I find it is impossible for me to stop the dishonest dealer from selling rotten food so long as this word is in the law.

"The onus falls heaviest on the poorer people. The rascally dealers don't take a chance on selling to a well-dressed or wealthy person for fear of determined prosecution. The best retailers out in Cambridge favor this bill, and the honest retailers everywhere will favor it."

Alton E. Briggs, executive secretary of the Fruit and Produce Exchange, appeared to fight the passage of the bill.

He said he did not wish to appear as a remonstrant, but admitted that his whole objection was to the striking out of the word "knowingly."

In view of the fact that it was repeatedly testified at this hearing that convictions were exceedingly difficult, so long as this clause remained in the bill, Mr. Briggs certainly championed the cause of those who wish to take advantage of this word. He denied any intention to oppose laws asking for honest and pure food, but declared this law would render the innocent and perfectly honest retailer liable to unjust conviction.

Mr. Briggs repeatedly evaded the issue raised by the question of Senator Ezra W. Clark, Senate chairman of the committee, and Representative P. Joseph McManus. The facts in the matter are these:

There are three classes of retailer: First, those who are strictly honest and who exercise the greatest care to see that they do not, even unwittingly, injure their customers; second, those who are just as honest, but who take no especial care of the interests of their customers; third, those who are dishonest.

And this is how this bill would affect each class:

The honest and careful man will say, "Good thing; I'm glad to see it is law."

Responsibility of Retailer.

The honest but careless man will say, "Why, by Jove, that's a good law! But I shall have to look sharp and see I don't violate it."

The third class, the dishonest man, will say: "D——— these pure food crooks!"

The whole purport of the bill is to insist on the "responsibility of the retailer." That is the idea of the new creed that is gaining followers every day. The followers of this creed believe the retailer is responsible to the public. They believe he holds a public trust, and that he must take care he does not violate it.

CLERGYMAN WANTS "TO PUT THOSE WHO NEED HELP ON THE RIGHT TRACK"

Writes Letter in the Hope of Helping Sufferers From Colds to Cure Them as He Was Cured

The following letter from a Philipsport, N. Y., clergyman is of special interest. Rev. John Ernest Parker, "in the hope of putting those who need help, on the right track to get it," as he says, tells his experience: "For several winters I have used Father John's Medicine when suffering from a severe cold, and it has never failed to give the desired results. When living where 'Father John's' is not procurable, I have tried other so-called remedies, but relief did not come and we have sent quite a distance for this 'friend of humanity' which I am glad to testify has never failed when put to the test.

This letter is given without solicitation, but with the hope that it may be the means of putting some one who needs the help I have received on the right track to get it." (Signed) John Ernest Parker, pastor, M. E. church, Philipsport, N. Y.

You should remember that neglected colds at this season of the year quickly lead to pneumonia and that you can fortify the system with Father John's Medicine, and from it gain strength to ward off disease. Free from dangerous stimulants.

PLAN CO-OPERATIVE SYSTEM FOR YORK STATE FARMERS

BUFFALO, Feb. 7.—The fortieth annual convention of the New York State Grange has decided to do away with the middleman and to build up a co-operative system whereby farm products may be sold and delivered by the producer to the consumer.

Co-operative societies in the various subordinate and pomona granges will be organized after which a supervisor will be named to direct a Statewide organization.

Next co-operative wholesale and retail markets in New York and other cities throughout the State will be established under the control of a marketing commission.

HALL QUESTIONED IN KELIHER INQUIRY

me about the duties of a master and I explained to him.

Knowing of the publication of the Keliher statement, and the claim that Keliher complained that certain men here in Boston had received from him the stolen funds of the bank, knowing them to be stolen, I stated to the reporter that the matter I was hearing had nothing whatever to do with that, that the defendants in the proceedings before me were officers of the bank, and the suit was to try out only the civil question whether they were so negligent in not discovering that Coleman was stealing from the bank that they ought to be required to pay to the depositors the amount of Coleman's peculations.

ROBERT O. HARRIS.

Is Walsh Dead?

Among the most interesting of the new phases of the faro graft and its long train of disasters is the advertisement left with the AMERICAN office—or it seems to raise—a question as to the death of Martin J. Walsh.

Here is the advertisement:

INFORMATION WANTED—Liberal reward will be paid for the name and address of any person or persons who saw and identified the body of Martin Walsh between the time of his death in New York and subsequent burial near Boston. Address U. S., Boston American.

The young man who placed the advertisement declined to insert a name and address, but secured the box number, "U. S., Boston AMERICAN," for replies. He said he would call tomorrow for any answers. He was about thirty years old, light complexioned, smooth faced, and seemed to be some lawyer's assistant or junior partner. He wore a black derby hat and long black overcoat.

The first report of Walsh's death was published in the Boston AMERICAN of October 23, 1911. It was a New York dispatch reading:

Martin J. Walsh, who with his wife had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Snell at the Sonoma apartments, No. 1,370 Broadway, died suddenly at the apartments. Dr. William Shuffeldt, who lives in the apartments, was called in. He said that in his opinion Walsh had died of acute indigestion.

The Snells said that Walsh was a broker and came from Massachusetts. Coroner Heitshusen was called in. Mr. Walsh came from Peabody.

Hunt All Over the World.

The report was sensational, for the federal authorities had searched all over the globe for Walsh over a year. The Department of Justice had been tipped off some time before that there would be an attempt to carry out a fake death and funeral of a body supposed to be Walsh's. The department hurried Agent Jenzer to the Sonoma Apartments. He knew Walsh by sight and carried a picture of him.

He was "stalled" by the elevator boy all day. He was continuously told that Mr. Snell was not at home. Then at 5 o'clock in the afternoon the body was lowered in the freight elevator and hurried to the Grand Central Station to catch a train for Boston. The sleuth arrived at the depot just too late.

Coroner Heitshusen afterward told the federal authorities that the only ones who saw the body were Mr. and Mrs. Snell and a woman who said she was Mrs. Walsh. The body was buried just as secretly.

Where Is the Widow?

After the alleged death of Walsh, his widow gave evidence of being in want by starting a lodging house on Newbury street, in Boston. She ran the house up to a few months ago and then disappeared. The federal authorities and Receiver Bates of the looted bank have been looking for her ever since.

She is wanted for information in the recent confession of Keliher in which he states that Walsh had hidden away $100,000 of the bank's loot. Mrs. Walsh stated on cross-examination in the Keliher bankruptcy proceedings a year ago that her husband died practically penniless.

But the authorities are pursuing an extensive a search for her, as they did for Martin Walsh, and it is even rumored that they have located and are in direct touch with her. It is stated that she married a wealthy real estate dealer, resident of Back Bay and life-time friend, sold her lodging house and went South.

Undertaker Won't Talk.

The mystery surrounding the death of Walsh was deepened today by the refusal of H. T. Stockwell, undertaker of Peabody, who prepared the supposed Walsh body for burial, to discuss the matter.

W. H. Stockwell, his brother, spoke for him. He stated at first that his brother had gone out of town, then admitted later that he might see him in half an hour. W. H. Stockwell said:

Never since the burial of Walsh or at the time of the funeral did my brother admit that the body was that of Walsh. I never asked him about it and he never volunteered the information. He knew Walsh well and prepared the body for burial. I was away from Peabody for a space of twenty-five years, returning here in 1908. I did not know Walsh, but that is immaterial as I never saw the body.

I knew Mrs. Walsh and saw her at the funeral. Several friends unknown to me accompanied her. The body was buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery. The casket and arrangements were pretty nice, but not over-elaborate.

New charges against Keliher come to bridge by George W. Coleman, came to light today with the publication for the first time of the bill of complaint in the suit by Receiver John L. Bates against Keliher and the Massachusetts Bonding Company in the Supreme Judicial Court. The purpose of the suit was to recover $50,000 which Keliher had deposited as security with the bonding company. Receiver Bates won the suit.

It is believed that John A. Hall, the former cashier of the Southbridge Savings Bank, who embezzled $750,000 of the bank's funds, fell into the clutches of Keliher and Walsh and lost thousands to the bunco men.

Hall Made Trips.

Hall has never told how he lost the hundreds of thousands of dollars he stole from the Southbridge Bank. Calvin D. Paige, president of the bank, declared that none of the bank officers was ever able to determine where the funds went. Since Keliher's recent exposures the suspicion has grown that Hall was one of Keliher's victims. Keliher says he "trimmed" one banker for $6,000 in a single night in New York. The theory held by depositors in the bank is that Hall was "approached" by Keliher and "fell" for "Big Bill's" game.

It is said that just before Hall was exposed he had been making trips to New York city, and his strengthened the belief that a part at least of the $750,000 he stole went the same way as did most of Coleman's $350,000 loot—into the pockets of Keliher, Walsh and others.

Hall is serving a sentence of from twelve to fifteen years at Charlestown.

The bill of complaint in which an itemized account is given of $160,500 turned over to Keliher by Coleman, is printed for the first time today. The document tells the remarkable story of how a $12 a week clerk was able without being detected for four years to steal from $3,000 to $4,000 on each of three or four occasions a week.

Bill of Complaint.

In handing down its decision, the Supreme Court ordered the bonding company to turn over to Receiver Bates $13,400 in cash and interest on the same to the amount $390.65. They also ordered the jewelry returned to Mrs. Keliher.

This is all of the loot, which Receiver Bates places at $185,000, which has been accounted for up to date and the statement of Keliher that Martin J. Walsh did away with $100,000 is the first light that has been thrown on the whereabouts of the balance.

Keliher's Answer.

Keliher's answer, through his attorneys, was as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Suffolk, ss. Supreme Judicial Court. JOHN L. BATES, Receiver, vs. WILLIAM J. KELIHER, and Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company.

ANSWER OF WILLIAM J. KELLIHER.

1. This defendant admits the allegations of paragraph one of the plaintiff's bill.

2. This defendant is ignorant as to the truth of the allegations of paragraph two of the plaintiff's bill and leaves him to prove the same so far as they may be material.

3. This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph three of the plaintiff's bill.

4. This defendant leaves the plaintiff to prove the allegations of paragraph four of the plaintiff's bill if material.

5. This defendant admits the allegations of paragraph five of the plaintiff's bill.

6. This defendant admits the allegations of paragraph six of the plaintiff's bill.

7. This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph seven of the plaintiff's bill.

8. This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph eight of the plaintiff's bill.

By his attorneys.

Then follows one of the most remarkable documents in the history of the Massachusetts courts. It shows how a $12 a week bookkeeper in a national bank was able without detection to rob the bank on an average of four times a week of from $3,000 to $4,000 at a time.

Coleman's List of His Stealings.

The stealings began, Coleman says, on June 2, 1909, and continued every few days until February 5, 1910, when Coleman was able to hand over to Keliher only $1,000, apologizing, as Keliher has told in his confession," that there was no more to steal."

With the publication of "List A," which has been secured by the AMERICAN, the mystery of Coleman's recent trip to Boston, where he worked over the books of the wrecked bank to aid the receiver, is solved.

Coleman in "List A" accounts for but $150,500 of his stealings. In his bill of complaint Receiver Bates states that Keliher received not less than $185,000 of the bank loot from Coleman. Mr. Bates is trying to account for the $24,500 difference which Coleman has not accounted for in his gifts to Keliher.

EXPERT TELLS OF HIS NEW THEORY OF ALL DISEASES

"The brain holds undisputed sway over every organ of the human body," stated John Beasley Webb, who is assisting in the introduction of Tona Vita. "The smallest action cannot be made unless the brain wills it.

"Nervous debility, the ailment which Tona Vita is battling with such success, is due to overwork being crowded on the brain by the different organs of the body.

"The symptoms act on whatever organ of the body is weakest.

"Maybe you are tired all day, but when the time comes to go to bed your brain refuses to rest, and sleep deserts you, and you wake up in the morning feeling more tired and depressed than when you went to bed. This is Nervous Debility.

"Among other common symptoms is that feeling of being 'run-down.' You know you are sick, and you cannot exactly locate the trouble. You are morbid and depressed.

"This form of Nervous Debility is caused by working either the brain or the body overtime, and can readily be relieved by the new tonic.

"Tona Vita can be purchased in any of the leading Drug Stores in Boston, and hundreds have testified to the relief they have obtained when suffering from any of the following symptoms of Nervous Debility: Acute pains in the back, drowsiness, a heavy feeling about the bowels, dizziness, that constant feeling of being tired and many others too numerous to mention."

MRS. BRADLEY MARTIN IS TOO ILL TO TRAVEL

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Discussing the Bradley-Martin funeral arrangements Lady Craven said to the AMERICAN correspondent:

It is impossible to say when the body will be removed to New York. Everything depends upon Mrs. Martin's health. She is suffering from lung trouble and until the weather in New York is more settled it would be unwise to allow her to travel.

The present arrangements are to hold the funeral service in Christ Church, Down street, Mayfair, at noon on Saturday, after which the coffin will be taken to the receiving vault there to await the ultimate removal to New York for interment in the family vault in Greenwood Cemetery. I persuaded Mrs. Bradley-Martin and Countess Craven not to attend the services.

London to Dance All the American Rackety Ragtime

LONDON, Feb. 7.—With pulpit and press bitterly denouncing the smuggling, sinuous, rackety American "one-step" dances, there, nevertheless, has been fixed for April 3 at the Savoy Hotel an "all ragtime" affair, a program to include all the extravagances of the turkey trot, bunny hug, Texas, chicken flip, Texas Tommy and the crocodile clutch. It is the first dance of its kind to be held in England. The ragtime fever here is intense.

Meantime the columns of the agony newspapers are ringing with letters of denunciation against the invasion. The dances are called barbarous, ungraceful and frankly indecent, but, amusingly enough, while there is a general denunciation that the character of such dances is horribly un-English, great flocks of English misses are taking to them like ducks to water. There has never before been such a demand for the rental of dancing halls, such a crowding of the classes where the "one-step" is taught.

MORE RIVALS ENTERED IN THE VENUS CONTEST

The Venus Editor would like to have the ages and measurements of Miss Kathleen Elliott of Racine, Wis., and Mrs. Hugh Roland French of California and Washington to compare them with some of the many contestants who are sending in their entries to the AMERICAN'S Venus contest.

C. W. de Lyon Nicholls, a New York author, has pronounced them the most beautiful women in the world. A study of their proportions and ages might help to a decision of the much-discussed question of the age of Venus when she had reached her greatest beauty.

The AMERICAN today presents the picture of Miss Mae Shaw, No. 44 Jay street, this city. She is twenty-six years old and therefore more mature than a majority of the contestants. Miss Shaw writes as follows:

Praised by Artists.

Editor AMERICAN:

I am twenty-six years old, and many artists have said my picture is perfect. My measurements follow:

Height	5 feet, 6 inches
Weight	138 pounds
Waist	28 inches
Hips	35½ inches
Bust	40 inches

Hoping this will meet with your approval, I remain, Yours respectfully,

MAE SHAW.

Other letters from contestants follow:

Told She Is Perfect.

Editor AMERICAN:

I wish to enter your Venus contest and am sending my measurements. I have many times been told I am a perfect thirty-six model.

Height	5 feet, 6 inches
Bust	36 inches
Waist	25 inches
Hips	36 inches
Weight	140 pounds

I am thirty-seven years old and have a daughter married. My occupation has always been housekeeping.

Respectfully,

MRS. W. F. LUSK.

No. 22 Norfolk street, Cambridge.

Somerville Contestant.

Editor AMERICAN:

I would like to enter my name in your Venus contest. My age and measurements are:

END LIVER TROUBLE WITHOUT CALOMEL

Untrustworthy Drug, Thought to Loosen the Teeth, Now Made Absolutely Unnecessary.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—the mildest but most positive known, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' calomelination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. Dr. Edwards has been calomel's most uncompromising foe. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-oil-colored tablets, a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil. These pleasant, harmless little tablets do all the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel at all, but to let Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disturbed liver. Take Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits.

At 10c and 25c a box.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

IN SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING IN THE LENTEN SEASON

A bit of Back Bay chatter ran thus:

"Talk of newly-weds in an old land! Here are George Peabody Gardner, Jr., and his bride, who was Rose Grosvenor, on their way to Egypt for a honeymoon trip. Isn't that romantic—love in the shadow of the pyramids, and so on."

The idea of a honeymoon trip through the land of the Nile of ancient ruins and modern engineering, appeals to many a girl. Egyptian moonlight streaming through broken columns—Thebes and Luxor and Karnac and all that—donkey Arabs—the old, old story in the old, old land—almost like an Oppenheim novel.

* * *

While the bridal pair is Egypt-bound, the parents have been together in Boston. Mrs. William Grosvenor of Providence, mother of the bride, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Gardner.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hollister are in Manhattan for a few days.

* * *

The Washington correspondent writes that the Misses Loring of Boston have been dinner guests of Mrs. Levi Lufler, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Rogers Morse at this city, who are at the capital, gave a dinner to several guests Wednesday evening.

* * *

When Mrs. Charles H. Bond arrives at her Commonwealth avenue home this evening from Washington she will find a trayful of notes congratulating her on the birth of her first grandchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Stearns (Edith Bond) of Cliftondale. Mrs. Bond was in Washington to attend a board meeting of the general D. A. R., of which she is vice-president. She was informed by wire of the arrival of the babe and has rounded up her duties in Washington in short order and hastened home.

Miss Elizabeth G. King of Providence announces the engagement of her niece, Frederika Macleod, of that city, to Warren Heath, son of Mrs. Heath and the late D. C. Heath, the Boston publisher. The Heath home is in Newton.

* * *

Alexander W. Moffatt, Harvard, '13, and Miss Sarah De Camp, daughter of the artist, Joseph R. De Camp, and Mrs. De Camp of West Medford, will be married in Grace Church, Medford, next Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MANY DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN NORTH END

Captain O'Reilly of Engine 4 was injured and scores of lodgers at the Bay State House, No. 380 Hanover street, and in other houses near were driven to the street early today when fire caused $500 damage to the three story wooden building at No. 14 Webster avenue. It was feared the blaze would spread to the adjoining buildings.

Patrolman McDonald discovered the fire in a paint shop on the top floor and, with the aid of members of the Cleveland Athletic Club, aroused the occupants. Many fled in their night attire. Captain O'Reilly fell backwards down stairs while directing a crew of men on the main stairway.

PATROLMAN QUITS WITH CASE PENDING

Patrolman John J. Brearton of the West Roxbury station has resigned, and Patrolman Clarence C. Wherf of the City Hall avenue station, sixty, who has been in the department for thirty-four years, has been put on the retired list. Charges were pending against Brearton.

CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN AT ONCE, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

In One Minute Your Stuffy Nose and Head Clears, Sneezing and Nose Running Cease, Dull Headache Goes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages, stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lie awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP---25-CENT "DANDERINE"

Save your hair! Danderine destroys dandruff and stops falling hair at once. Grows hair; we prove it.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides, it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome, it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If you hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily don't hesitate, but get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25-cent bottle will truly amaze you.

ARABELLA AMES CONTESTS WILL OF MRS. BROWN

Arabella Ames of Onset, a cousin of the late Mrs. Charlotte Thompson Ames Brown, who defended the contested will of her husband, Samuel Newell Brown, will in turn contest the will of Mrs. Brown, in which she was left $2,000. Notice of the contest was filed today. No date has been set for the hearing. Miss Ames is the only heir-at-law of Mrs. Brown. The estate is valued at $700,000.

Mrs. Brown was married to Mr. Brown, who is eighty-four years old, in October, 1910. She was the widow of Joel Bradford, a Brockton business man. When Mrs. Brown died it was found that he had cut off his son, Harold H. Brown, with $1,000. The will was disallowed on the eve of a contest on the petition of the son, which was consented to by Mrs. Brown. The estate was then valued at $800,000.

The largest bequest made by Mrs. Brown was $250,000 to the New England Baptist Hospital on Parker Hill, Roxbury. She also bequeathed $25,000 to her attorney, Walter I. Badger. He was appointed special administrator by the court and filed a bond of $100,000, and $100,000 as executor.

NOT CERTIFICATES ENOUGH ON INCOME TAX AMENDMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—State Department records fail to show officially that enough States have acted favorably upon the income tax amendments to insure its ratification, because the officials of several States that have recently acted have failed to send in their certificates. The department has taken notice of the fact that some State Legislatures which were expected to act upon the amendment during their present sessions have abandoned that purpose because thirty-eight States had already acted favorably.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys, which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any of those who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50 cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists'. Be sure to mention this paper.

MORE GARMENT SHOPS YIELD TO UNION DEMAND

firms effected by the general strike order will have settled with the union, and give employment at union hours, wages and working conditions to at least 2,500 additional strikers.

Women Plan General Strike.

The announcement that a general strike of 12,000 men and women in the unions affiliated with the International Ladies' Garment Workers is being planned, got a new phase on the local situation today. It was generally believed that it would tend to hasten negotiations toward a settlement.

It was announced today that all affiliated locals have ratified the demands to be presented Monday to the 200 contractors manufacturing ladies' garments. On the accepting or rejecting of these, the general strike hinges, it is said.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald, who is leading the women in the garment strike, put in an active day today. She was everywhere at once, it seemed, directing the battle for the strikers. She succeeded in calling out seventy-five hands in a small pants shop on Border street, East Boston, and at three shops in the North End.

Disarm All Picketers.

A shop meeting for the Macullar, Parker Company employes will be held today. It was decided to discontinue the picketing of the shop for the present, at least, and no pickets were about there today.

The picket squads have been warned that there must be no violence and the picketers have obeyed orders. To insure that there be no violence of any kind, that some State Legislatures which were expected to act upon the amendment during their present sessions have abandoned that purpose because thirty-eight States had already acted favorably, every man or woman detailed for that kind of work is searched before leaving union headquarters and any knives or instruments that might be used for weapons taken from them until they return from their picketing detail.

Strikers Appeal to Sulzer.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 7.—The Central Trades and Labor Council has wired Governor Sulzer asking him to take steps to bring about a public investigation of the clothing industry in Rochester. The telegram reads in part:

Strikers, men and women, who are trying to improve their order, are being murdered and shot down. The manufacturers, in their efforts to divert the attention of the public from the real issue, are suggesting a Grand Jury investigation as to how the strike was brought about. Organized labor requests and invites an investigation, but one that is open to the public.

ANGELA MORGAN TELLS GARMENT GIRL'S FIGHT WITH 3 IN FAMILY ILL

By ANGELA MORGAN.

ANGELA MORGAN

Five hundred girls and women of mixed ages and nationalities, gathered en masse to one purpose; all anxious, all dishevelled, talking a babel of tongues; some weeping, in despair and all united by a common struggle—it was a spectacle not to be forgotten.

Such was the mass meeting of the striking women garment workers at union headquarters, No. 724 Washington street, where, in one great body of protest I felt as never before the huge throb of purpose that underlies their fight.

Here it was that one story after another, uttered by daughters, mothers, sisters—tales of hardship and slavery and want—told more eloquently than any argument the reason for this fight.

Exaggeration? There is no need for it, there is no excuse. These stories are enough. Plain, unvarnished, straight from the hearts and lives of these simple workers, they speak as the elaborate narrative could not.

Questions and answers: straight fact for fact—that was all. But it was enough.

Here is one girl's story, taken from a mass of others. Her name is Sadie Israelson, and she lives in Hyde Park. She is one of a family of seven. At present two of her sisters are ill. Her father is ill, and she has been for some time the only one working. Her average wage of $5.50 a week has been all the support they have had since illness attacked the family.

"I have been working," said Sadie, "since I was fourteen years old. For three months I was in night school, but I had to give it up because there wasn't time to do my work at the shop and have supper and get to school by 7 o'clock.

"Now listen. Some people think when we tell those stories of our struggles that we're just complaining, and there's no reason. They can't believe we suffer all we do.

"But let me tell you, we can't tell it any worse than it is. We're simply saying the plain facts, and they must speak for us. I've got to make more money or we cannot live. I am considered an expert worker, but the wages I have been getting would not take care of me, much less help the others in my family.

"What Is There Left?"

"Just think, what is there left when I pay our rent, which is $1.20 a week, and lunches, and all the other necessary things? Now, about the shop I have worked in. We are just made to work, work, work every minute like the wheels of a machine. We dare not stop, we must keep on going. When the girls in the next room open the window for fear of a complaint. We just have to sit there like so many parts of machinery and go on and on, driven by the power of the boss.

"What do you suppose our orders are? I'll tell you. Once a girl looked out of the window at something—I think it was a fire engine going by—and the boss called her right down. He said: 'Look here! you're not supposed to lift your head but once a day? Now, do you see? Just once a day can we look up from work. We haven't any right!

"Where do I live? In a tenement that rents for $12 a month. How do we pay the rent when wages are so low? I can't answer that, and I wonder who can. When my father is well he works, and two of my sisters help when they are well. But you see I am the only one working at this time. If I fall there is nothing for any of us."

One young girl sixteen years old—such a little thing she was, scarcely more than a child—talked with the vigor of an older woman when she told of her problems.

"Look here," she said, attacking the subject with the precision of one forced from her earliest years to meet the world. "You've heard lecturers talk about mothers sacrificing themselves, going without food to give it their families? Well, it's all true. I've seen many a mother do it when the father or the child needed the food most.

"Mothers Do Not Eat."

"How do you suppose one pound of meat can feed a family of seven or ten? And what else you going to do if you can't buy more than one pound of meat? I'll tell you what the mothers do. They don't eat half the time. The mother has her pittance to buy food for the family table. And she says to herself, 'I can buy so much worth of meat and so much worth of potatoes and so much worth of bread.' Well, then that food will not go round for all. What does she do?

"Just this. The father says, in surprise, when he sees she does not eat: 'Haven't you any meat for yourself?' And she says, 'Oh yes, I've eaten my meat. I ate it while I was cooking.' And he doesn't know the difference, so he eats his portion. Or the child eats what is set before it and doesn't know that the mother is starving herself. These things are true."

This girl is one of a family of twelve, including father and mother. She, too, has worked since she was fourteen. She doesn't know that life ever should mean anything else. "Of course I work. How could we all live, if we didn't work, always?" That is what life spells for her.

Lillian is this girl's name. She left grammar school in the seventh grade and has graduated from night school. She loves music. She is ambitious to study it.

"My mother is just out of the hospital. The doctor says she must go back again because she isn't well yet. The operation was not right."

Lillian said she would not mind working if the shop could only be clean and comfortable and her surroundings right. "It is an old place," she said. "There are rats running around sometimes. The men smoke and the air is awful bad. But what can we do?

What the Boss Says.

"If we ever complain, the boss just says one thing: 'If you don't like it, take your hat and go.' It's always that. 'If you don't like it, you can go.'

That's why we never were able to complain by ourselves. The only way we can do is to join in a body, the way we are doing now."

Both girls are finishers, working on men's vests and coats. They do everything, they say, in connection with the work—they do not specialize.

"We sew on buttons, make canvas fronts, make buttonholes, finish lapels and baste shoulders. There isn't anything we can't do on coats and vests, except, of course, the stitching, which is mostly done by the men. What does it mean that work like ours does not bring a living wage? Don't you see, we've GOT to live? That's why we're struck. There isn't any other way."

NEW ENGLAND NEWS

PORTLAND, Me.—Mrs. Mary B. Burnham, police matron, arrested an alleged army deserter, and if the charge is proven may receive the usual reward of $50.

BOYS LANDED BEFORE COURT BY WIRELESS

The amateur wireless craze landed Henry T. Lawrence, sixteen, of Glen Road, Weston, and Clifford A. Lowell, seventeen, of No. 301 Auburndale, in the Newton Police Court today. They are charged with breaking and entering and larceny. They come of well-to-do families. Lawrence is a student at the Newton Classical High School and Lowell at the Newton Technical High School.

When the police searched young Lowell's room at his home, they alleged they found batteries, wiring and other equipment which they allege were taken from garages in Auburndale. The investigation involved young Lawrence, both boys are known to be "wireless bugs," and Lowell was evidently working on an attempt to install a wireless station from his home. The boys were brought before Judge Kennedy. The cases were continued until Monday.

The thefts of batteries and wiring that have been going on in this vicinity have puzzled the Newton police. They went to Ryegate, N. H., and brought back William H. Tobey, thirty-four, and had him in court today charged with breaking and entering the shop of John Healey, of No. 209 California street, Newton, on January 15. He is alleged to have taken batteries and wiring. They traced him to his former home in Ryegate. He was held for the Grand Jury.

BUCKET SHOP MEN ARE GIVEN $50,000 FINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Fines aggregating $50,000 were imposed by Justice Stafford in criminal court today in the so-called "bucket shop cases" resulting from the recent indictment of Justice in April, 1910. Five defendants pleaded guilty, two others entered pleas of nolo contendere or declined to resist prosecution and charges against six were nolle-prossed by United States Attorney Clarence R. Wilson, with the approval of the court.

Louis Cella and Angelo Cella, both of St. Louis, and Samuel W. Adler of New York were fined $10,000 each; Oscar J. Rappell of Jersey City, $5,000, and William Fox of Jersey City, $2,500; all pleaded guilty. C. A. Tillis of St. Louis was fined $10,000 after entering a plea of nolo contendere, and Charles R. Alley of Washington, who entered the same plea, was fined $2,500.

The charges against Robert Hall, Samuel Raymond, E. M. Brownlee, Henry C. Stumpf, Henry R. Duryea and Edward W. Allenaix were nolle prossed.

CERTAINLY ENDS STOMACH MISERY

"Pape's Diapepsin" Cures Heartburn, Gas, Sourness and Indigestion in Five Minutes.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and sours your stomach, your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes such misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress—rest without fear. It's because Pape's Diapepsin "really does" regulate sour, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant preparation which truly belongs in every home.

PARSEE WARNS AMERICAN GIRLS OF HINDU CULT

A warning to American girls and women against the "taxirs" of the Hindus with its hypnotism, its midnight orgies and other weird rites is made by Rustom Bomjee, the Parsee publicist and Oriental scholar who is visiting in Boston. He declares the new sect has already secured a foothold in New York and New Jersey. Rustomjee said:

This so called sect is the thin end of the wedge to the introduction into the United States of Brahmanic power with all its baddening and immoral accomplishments. I have to view with concern the attention given by the susceptible in this country to men who come here claiming to be teachers and apostles of the Hindu faiths.

These men are not the genuine religious teachers of India. The so-called religion they propagate here, is neither the religion of India nor the philosophy of India—it is some kind of German philosophy with a little of orientalism thrown in. I have no faith in these self-styled teachers, and I feel very keenly that they are doing a great deal of harm to the women of America, and especially to girls.

There may be exceptionally good men among them, but I believe they are mostly not of very high moral character. And it seems to me that they exert some kind of hypnotic power.

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

If Tongue Is Coated, Stomach Sour, Breath Feverish, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean the Bowels.

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish, Mother! Examine the tongue; if coated, it means the little one's stomach is disordered, liver inactive and its thirty feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste.

Every mother realizes after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs" that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little one's tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectually, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour, disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of "Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna an aromatics it cannot be harmful.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name of "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

MRS. R. B. TUCKER, one of the society women interested in the fair at the Copley-Plaza.

Lillian Hollis, Famed "Child of Tragedy," Starves to Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Many actors and actresses stood with bowed heads on the sidewalk in front of an Eighth avenue undertaking establishment as the coffin containing the body of Lillian Lorraine Hollis, known as the "child of tragedy," was borne to the hearse which conveyed it to a crematory.

In a voting contest conducted by several California newspapers in 1892, Miss Hollis was proclaimed the prettiest woman of the Pacific coast. Today her body showed the want of nourishment, and the beauty of twenty years ago had fadled.

Her mother was Laura D. Fair, who was known forty years ago as one of the most beautiful women in San Francisco. In 1870, soon after the birth of the woman created today, Laura Fair followed Judge A. P. Crittenden on board of a ferryboat going from San Francisco to Oakland, where he was to meet his wife, returning from the East, and shot and killed him because he would not acknowledge the parentage of the child.

BOY DROWNS DESPITE EFFORTS OF 4 WOMEN

ATTLEBORO, Feb. 7.—While four women battled for his life, fourteen-year-old Howard Denton drowned in the new Attleboro reservoir, after plunging with his sled through the thin ice. His father and mother work in a North Attleboro factory and, left at home alone, the boy was warned against going to the reservoir near by.

WELLESLEY GIRLS TAKE TO PUNGING

Sleighing rides on pungs and sleighs that pass through Wellesley square is the latest Winter sport to be adopted by the students of the Dana Hall School and Wellesley College here. The young women declare it far more sport than skating, hockey and tobogganing.

William H. Lewis, assistant United States Attorney-General, has been selected as the Lincoln Day orator by the Massachusetts House. The resolution provided that the honor go to "a member of the liberated race."

SOCIETY PAYS $1.50 FOR DOZEN COOKIES AT FAIR

Boston society women who are aiding the Industrial Home for Crippled and Deformed Children with their fair at the Copley-Plaza received a big boost today for the second day of the event with a splendid sum already in the treasury.

Princes ruled high, but were willingly paid in aid of the good cause. Small cookies sold at $1.50 a dozen, while cake went at $2 a loaf.

The luncheon room was crowded. Here the young women in attendance were drawn largely from the debutante set and Vincent Club members. They were all dressed in the conventional white gowns and aprons. Among those enjoying the luncheon were Mrs. Thomas N. Walsh, with a party including her sister, Mrs. Charles Whitney and Mrs. Greer.

The centre table had a large party, including Mrs. Timothes Adamowski, C. Cotting and others. Near by sat J. Gardner Minot, treasurer of the home, and a party of friends. Mrs. De Forest Danielson, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Mrs. H. Staples Potter, Mrs. Stephen H. Bennett, Mrs. Eben D. Jordin, Mrs. Samuel W. Bates, Miss daughter, Miss Evanore, Miss Elizabeth Baker, Mrs. Wallace Goodrich and others.

Mrs. Daniel Snow, with Mrs. Franklin Hobbs, was kept busy at the bundle table. The flower table was in charge of Mrs. Sullivan Sargent. A table of articles made by the children of the home was in charge of Miss Newell.

Among those assisting at the tea hour were Mrs. Richard D. Sears and a bevy of young women. A novel feature of the fair was a string orchestra of men students. In the centre of the ball room, where they played for dancing in the back of the large ball room, which entertainment found popular favor with many of the younger set at the nominal figure of fifty cents, together with the "shutes," which caused no end of amusement.

Among the many present during the tea hour were noted Mrs. Samuel D. Watts, Grafton Minot, Mrs. R. Reed Cutting and her brother, W. B. P. Weeks and his wife, Prescott Bigelow, Gardiner Greene Hammond, Miss Ruth Anthony and others.

NEW YORK GRAFTERS SEND THREATENING LETTERS TO SIPP

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—In terror over the graft exposures that have already involved four police officials, Arthur Sipp today resorted to threats to silence the witnesses who have made possible the turning of the spotlight upon officials who have grown rich through protection money.

George A. Sipp, former Bolmo law hotel proprietor, who confessed to District Attorney Whitman that he had paid vice graft to the police for years, sending the patrolmen who collected it, told Mr. White man that he had received warning to leave town.

PIMPLES AND SORT OF RASH

First Between Fingers, Spread Rapidly to Palms of Hands, Lower Limbs and Soles of Feet. Healed Through Use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

Dedham Ave., Needham, Mass.—"My trouble showed its presence first between the fingers. It developed in the form of peeling off of the skin. Then it spread rapidly to the palms of my hands, and next on my lower limbs and the soles of my feet. On my lower limbs pimples and a sort of rash developed, which led at times to so great irritation as to make me unthinkingly seek relief by scratching, only to result in the apparent spreading of the trouble. My flesh in the affected parts became hot and dry. The disfigurement on my hands was unpleasantly noticeable. Refreshing sleep under such conditions was wholly impossible, and a nervous condition followed. I was compelled to wear bandages on my feet to relieve the irritating effect of my shoes.

"Various remedies were tried but none of them seemed to give any definite benefit until I resorted to Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Improvement began at once and the gradual disappearance of the patches on my hands with the accompanying itching and burning resulted. My limbs and feet yielded more slowly to the treatment, but eventually they also were healed through the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) A. A. Cambridge, May 18, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

☞ Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

"No Smoking" Rule Makes Demand for Asbestos Pockets

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—Local tailors are receiving orders from their customers that at least one asbestos pocket be placed in every suit and every overcoat they make, as a result of the new "no smoking" rule of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

A widely known Walnut street tailor placed a large order for asbestos today, and when asked if he had been employed to make an asbestos suit, he explained:

"Why, some of my customers are bringing back their overcoats to have the asbestos pocket fixed. They want the pocket as a saving in cigar bills. There is no danger to the clothes, as there is a little flap on the asbestos pocket that makes it practically airtight. The cigar, without air, goes out almost as soon as it is placed in the pocket. It smokes very little, and there is no danger that the conductor will attempt to put off the passenger with the asbestos pocket."

CLUB DEMANDS ELEVATED TAKE T. P. LALLY BACK

The Cleveland Club of Forest Hills demands that the officials of the Boston Elevated Railroad take back one of its members, Thomas P. Lally, who, it is claimed, was obliged to resign after twenty-two years' service with the road, on account of his activity in the recent strike.

Through ex-Representative William M. McMorrow and President P. J. Brady of the Cleveland Club, the regular Ward 23 Democratic organization, Russell A. Sears, the attorney of the Elevated road, was asked to restore Lally.

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

Recent Reports Show Hundreds Suffer With Kidney Troubles and Don't Know It

There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder (frequently causing annoyance at night), who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result.

All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filterers of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly.

If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone, which costs but a trifle, and commence its use at once. When you have taken a few doses you will be surprised how differently you will feel.

Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out the kidneys, and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder, and quickly relieves pain of all kinds.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, it is so prepared that it is practically impossible to infect it into the human system without results.

You can secure an original package of Croxone from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

An adventure of the famous Captain Kettle

BY CUTCLIFFE HYNE

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Hamilton Fairfax.....A shipping clerk
Amy Rivers.....His fiancee
Captain Patrick Cambel.....A schemer
Captain Owen Kettle.....An adventurer
Theodore Shelf.....Rich and unscrupulous
Mrs. Shelf.....With social ambitions

What Has Gone Before

Captain Cambel and Mr. Shelf enter upon a secondrelly plan to load a ship with a cargo of wool her to Florida from England, have the ship lost in the Everglades, sell by a secret passage, which Cambel alone knows, have the specie saved. This plan involves murder, and probably several murders, but Shelf takes the risk as the less. Marmaduke, Rivers and Shelf, is in difficulties and his own finances are depleted by an extravagant wife. They put Captain Owen Kettle in charge of the ship. The details are arranged. The ship is to carry 500,000 pounds in gold and a cargo of general freight as a blind.

PART I

"THEN pay it yourself."

"That's outside for us to-night. Working expenses are your contributions to the partnership. And, besides, for another thing, I couldn't plank down that money if I wished. I haven't it in the world."

"Mr. Cambel, I believe you. Will you extend the same courtesy to her whom I tell you that if I were to attempt taking even such a trivial sum as 500 pounds to-day it would precipitate me into bankruptcy tomorrow?"

"Whew! Are you nipped as badly as all that?"

"I have a remorseless drain on my widely divided on the proceeds of land purchase like a great sponge. It is a domestic drain, and I cannot resist it."

"Yes, poor devil," said Cambel, with the first sense of sympathy he had yet shown to his partner. "I believe I am cleaned. and it tones down your things color. You aren't quite as black as I be Never by your own showing have been a moderate sort of way. And if I've been greedy rude about it, why you must have considered you a sloppy accomplice, playing entirely for your own hand. I'll apologize, you see. That isn't the least polite, but I think it's plain and perhaps we stand on an equal footing now. But about this bankruptcy. Let us return a moment to you should notice our Florida coaling project and keep it up. It will thicken the naughty down to a very sufficient length."

"I think I shall keep on my feet, Mr. Cambel. I trust, I pray I shall, and, more, I firmly believe for certain you have said

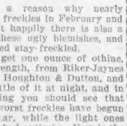
the world's greatest cleanser

Gold Dust stands at the head of all cleaners and cleansing products—it has stood right there ever since it was introduced.

The beauty of it is that Gold Dust will do more work and more kinds of work than soap or any other cleanser. It will also do quicker, better work—and save at least one-half the housewife's time and labor.

To use Gold Dust for all household cleaning is to do your work in the shortest and best way.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means great economy.



"Let the Gold Dust Twins do your work"

FRECKLES

February and March Worst Months for this Trouble—Now to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in February and March, but happily there is also a cure for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get one ounce of othine, double strength, from Elker-Jayne's Drug Co., Houghton & Dutton, and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if othine fails.

"A cheery, amiable crowd you've collected," said Cambel.

"Then you have to put up with what other people have left, and it does not take you long to learn that your beauties have not been rejected for their excellencies.

It was this way on the Port Edes. Forward and aft, engine hold and pantry, each man on board of her had his private sea failing. Between them they united weakness, cyesight, decision, strength of fist, strength of language, seamanship and economy sobriety. Among the deckhands there were virulent sea lawyers; in the stokehold there were outlaws wanted by several governments. The engineers were skilful in getting the smallest possible spoilage per ton of coal; the mates were all shipboard navigators untrustworthy even to correct a compass and useless to drive a truculent crew.

Over all was Owen Kettle, master mariner, and whatever his failings may be, and the index of them filled several chapters, did not show prominently at the head of such a ship's company. Like all men in the merchant marine, he had born low in a rougher school, but, unlike his unsuccessful brethren, he had not graduated later on to the smooth things of a well-managed passenger liner, for though his sins he had remained a pitiful knockabout skipper—a man with knife-edge words always ready on the tip of his tongue, a broken whistle in one pocket and deadly weapon in the other.

He was an excellent seaman and navigator and a man capable of going an ordinary voyage without taking off his clothes or enjoying the option of regular sleep. Taking into account these qualifications, it may be understood that, were he convicted at sea, he credited himself with powers of a court, and was entirely unscrupulous in gaining ends which his inefficiency or his owners had down for him, and though not physically powerful, he had the pluck of a dog and an unholy reputation for marksmanship. For the handling of such a menagerie of all-round scoundrelism and incapacity as banked in the steamship Port Edes no better man than Owen Kettle breathed in either hemisphere.

Crew of Grumblers

The crew signed their marks on the articles at the shopping office in the Sailors' Home and went grumbling to get rid of their advances. Later most of them turned up on the steamer, with their worldly goods done up in dunnage sacks which looked to the uninitiated like pillowslips, some apparently possessing nothing but the squalid raiment they stood up in. There was not one of them dressed like a sailor, according to the conventional idea, yet most of them had made their bread upon the seas since early boyhood, which shows what conventional ideas are sometimes worth. They were most of them oldish men and looked even older than their years.

The engineers came on board early, for the most part in scrubby blue serge and sour, black temper. They grumbled at the messroom in broad Glaswegian, prophesied evil in advance about the capacities of the saloon steward and the ship's cook, dumped their belongings into their various rooms and changed to apparel more suitable for tall-twisting in the unclean regions below. Then they went on duty, quarrelled with the donkeyman who was making steam for the winches, and proceeded to split up the crew of firemen and trimmers into watches and apportion them to furnace doors and bunkers.

Three mates, the boatswain and the carpenter were also on board betimes, most of them large-headed with recent libations and feeling unanimous accordingly. There was a small general cargo being shipped for New Orleans, and it gave these worthy officers cause to find occasional solid fault with the stevedore's crew or the cranemen on the wharf, but for the most part they shuffled about the decks in easy slippers attending to the various ship duties in inmotive, silencing silence.

Patrick Cambel came into the chartroom on the bridge deck, closing the door behind him. "A cheery, amiable crowd you've collected," he said.

"Aren't they?" replied Captain Kettle from a sofa locker. "They're just the terror of a crew. You wait till we get to sea, and they start on mischief. My name's not Owen Kettle if I don't have them all in irons. And the rest of the afterguard is much of a piece picked out that way on purpose. Oh, I tell you Mr. Cambel, that I stand alone, and I shall have my hands full. But let them start, the brutes! I'll have them. It isn't a new sort of fun carry, this, with me.

Kettle's Eyes Are Open

"Oh, don't you make any error," said Kettle. "I know my job, and if I want you it is because you'll see things for yourself and perhaps join in at them. I don't go and tell everybody. Not much. They think sailors I've got a real soft thing this time. Why, do you know, Mr. Cambel," he added, with a thin, sour grin, "my old woman wanted to come with me for the trip? She said it was so long since she had a whiff of outside air that now I'd had such a tidy steamboat under me she couldn't miss the chance. Yes'm, and she said to bring one of the kids with her that wanted to be a sailor like his daddy. I tell you she was that took on she would hear no refusal, and I had to write a letter to the owners and get them to wire back 'No' she could read for herself. It'd look well set to mend that tale, wouldn't it?"

Cambel shrugged his shoulders. "What can you expect at that price?" he asked. "This isn't a twelve-pound a month berth, and you've thrashed across the Atlantic in worse ships for less."

"Don't you mistake me," replied Kettle. "I'm working for full value, you see, and there's many an old sailor'd like to be in my shoes if he only knew. I'm not grumbling at the berth, only when a man's on a racket of this kind it's a bit hard on him to have a wife and kids he's fool enough to be fond of. It's an ugly amusement lying to them like a play actor when you know it's ten chances to one you'll never see English mud again. That's the way it cuts, though I suppose you'll think it all a sailor's gamble. Perhaps you aren't a married man?"

"No, I'm not."

"But you've got people who care for you?"

Cambel gave the ghost of a smile and then laughed. "No," he said "I can't even boast of that. Acquaintances are mine in thousands, but friends—well, all friendship has its breaking strain. I'm a bit like that comfortable, contemptuous person, the Miller of the Dee. I believe I did care for somebody once, and she made me think she cared for me. Probably she lied, because, under persuasion, she went off with another man. Hadn't though, what does it matter? Kettle, we're talking rank sentiment. And that's an unprofitable employment for men engaged on a piece of delicate business. And—here's a gentleman come to tell me that the consignment of specie is just commencing to arrive. Now, Captain, the stuff will be in iron-bound boxes, and you and I have got to weigh each one separately and check the invoice. And then we're to act as our own stevedores and stow half of it in the cabin next my room and half of it across the alleyway next to the mate's."

"Why divide it?"

"Because the weight is big and it would give your steamer a heavy list to starboard."

They Arrange Details

"Oh, as to that, never mind. We can easily bring her up again with a trimming tank. And I shouldn't feel comfortable if any of the stuff was in that room next to the mate's. You see, Mr. Cambel, any one on board can go down that alleyway. In fact, it's the only road from end to end on the ship unless you go up over the bridge deck. And I'd not guarantee but that the bolt would make some of them beauties try and tamper with the door. It's big enough to smudge the honesty of any creature. They're earning only four pounds a month. Now the room next years box from walls and opens only into the saloon cabin. There's a good lock on it already, and if I make the carpenter bend on four more you'll have a strong room the Bank of England might boast about."

"That sounds sensible," commented the envoy from the bank.

"Very well," said Cambel, "I believe it is the best plan. Now, if you please, we'll have the weighing machine to the main cabin, and if you, sir, instruct your men to bring in the boxes one by one I'll satisfy myself that they agree with the tally, and Captain Kettle shall build them up in the staterooms before us both. It's a very responsible job we have upon us, and the more counter-checkings and precautions we can put into it the better for our several reputations."

It was a responsible job. Not every day is specie to the tune of 500,000 British sovereigns shipped from a Liverpool dock, and, because gold boxes are made in a conventional pattern, the shipment was not spotted, and crowds gathered to stare at the cased-in wealth.

As starting dumbly is dry work, self-appointed orators among the crowd naturally distributed gratis their own private opinions upon the situation, and accordingly to their lack or copiousness drew attracted larger or smaller audiences. No one took them very seriously, and they, for the most part, treated the subject in a jocular vein. It was not till Captain Kettle and the Mersey pilot had gone on the upper bridges and the mate on the foredeck had cast off the first bowlines, that a self-appointed prophet arose, who spoke of the gold shipment in another key.

An Annoying Spellbinder

He was a wild, unkempt, knuckleheed man who first attracted the attention by tying a crimson handkerchief to an umbrella and brandishing it above his head. Being on the fave of him a gentleman who never, if he could avoid it, put his hands to honest labor, he naturally addressed the crowd as "fellow workers." These things awake a slight humorous interest, and because the man had the gift of gab and striking speech the crowd continued to listen after the first prickling up of their ears. The man's discourse need not be reported in detail. It was an absurdist, red, ramnant and pothree, and by means of arguments somewarped, some fair enough, he pointed out to his hearers that the mission of the Port Edes was another bald thrust of capital into the ribs of labor. The statement met with a very mixed reception, but the anarchist silenced both the jeers and the applause with a bewitching wave of his hand, and followed it up by the carry of the wharf the steamer, which was commencing to float upward as dock gates. He spoke to those on board of her now rather than to his more immediate fellowers, and mechanical faces stared at him over the bulwarks.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

Helping at Home

THE women haven't a legitimate outlet for the foot streak in them for the reason that they are never elected to the Legislature where they can introduce fools bills.

Denied this dignified means of an escape for foolishness, they are forced to open up channels at club meetings, in street corner meeting, or in letters to the Press, to making suggestions of reform that make the world clutch at its hair.

Daysey Mayme Appleton has availed herself of all these outlets with success. That she has suggestions have received attention. That none were taken seriously is altogether immaterial.

When Daysey recently confined her to her home, she rose bravely above the clog it would have put on spirits less brave, and decided she would improve the time by doing good at home.

"I have put a question box on the library table," she said, "and will answer any question the family may put in it."

"Is it proper," read the first question, "to call a room a library because there is a bookcase in it, a magazine and a late novel on the table? While answering the question, please decide also if one ferns makes a conservatory."

"I have been eating brain food cereals for breakfast for six months," ran the next question, "and my brain is as beaudied as the women folks and testimonials on the box declare, can I claim recognition by demanding higher wages?"

"Please tell me if any of the cannibal races eat their kin. I wish to know if there are any advantages in civilization."

"How could persons sick," the fourth inquiry read, "have used two hot water bags and three foot warmers, and taken two bottles of cough syrup and a box of pills and have worn four plasters. How do you find room for all these things in the arms of the Electric Good you talk so much about when you are well?"

Her father had written the next question. "I married a woman who weighed 125 pounds. She now weighs 250 pounds. Can I be arrested for bigamy?"

The next was in a boy's hand. "When a girl your years is growing stiff with age, is it proper for her to tell her friends she is suffering with infantile paralysis?"

It was too much, and Daysey Mayme burst into tears.

"You are all making fun of me," she cried. "That's all I get for trying to lift your souls to a higher plane."

The 2 Great Essentials of Food

1st: Taste No matter how nourishing a food may be it must taste good. If it doesn't, it won't coax the digestive juices into action; and if it doesn't do that the nourishment in the food will pass through the body unassimilated.

2nd: Cooking No matter how nourishing a food may be, if it requires cooking it must be properly cooked. Cooking brings about chemical changes, without the aid of which the digestive juices cannot perform their task.

H-O Oatmeal is tempting in taste. The full flavor of the oats is brought out by our process of cooking in sealed cookers.

H-O Oatmeal is always properly cooked in 20 minutes. We cook it over 2 hours at the mill before you get it.

Therefore, you always have in H-O Oatmeal the two great essentials of food.

Citron Cake

Another famous Drake Cake

In this Citron Cake you will find a delightful surprise. It is so much finer in quality and flavor than any you have ever tasted.

For example, we have learned that "Torelli" citron alone retains all its fine flavor in baking, and we get it in quantities, uncandied, for in candied citron much of the real taste is destroyed.

You can buy it by the pound at your grocers.

PRINCETON TO GIVE WILSON BIG SENDOFF

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 7.—President-elect Wilson went to Philadelphia again today to consult his dentist. He left here at 8:22 o'clock, saying he could close Philadelphia late in the afternoon, probably going to New York.

Before starting Mr. Wilson learned that the townspeople of Princeton are preparing to give him a rousing farewell on Saturday night. March 1, two days before he leaves for Washington to be inaugurated.

The plans were announced by Joseph Hoff, a Princeton business man, who has been a personal friend of this President-elect for twenty years. It is the intention to have nearly the entire population of the town, irrespective of political creed, march to the Wilson cottage in Cleveland lane, headed by one or more bands.

Local orators will make farewell speeches, wishing Mr. Wilson good luck and prosperity in the White House. The President-elect will respond.

Students at the university have made arrangements for four special trains of thirteen cars each to carry the 1,000 Princeton men to Washington to take part in the 40-august parade. Mr. Wilson has accepted an invitation to use one of the private cars for himself and family on the trip to Washington.

Parcel Post Nearly Wrecks Romances as Candy Gifts Melt

College students are up in arms against the parcel post. Several have come within an ace of being handed the mitten by their fair intendeds, if college men ever really have any such. And all because of the parcel post.

You see it happened this way. When Uncle Sam inaugurated his parcel post, many of these gay collegians seized upon it as an admirable way to send their young lady friends the choice confections that the candy makers advertise as the best way to the heart. So they filled them on their way to the confectioners, bought the choice confections, filled their way to the parcel post window and entrusted their confections to Uncle Sam.

Then alas and alack. What happened? When the candy reached its destination it was a sickly conglomeration of chocolate and sugar. No pleased smiles greeted the senders when they came to make their bi-weekly call. Most of the students had to take a whole evening explaining and so that some of them didn't succeed in righting matters, so its said.

700 South Boston Boys at Session of Anti-Cigarette Body

Seven hundred pupils of public schools of South Boston, who are members of the City Point Anti-Cigarette League, will hold their annual meeting today at the Thomas N. Hart School on East Fifth street.

Max H. Newman will speak and there will be an entertainment under the direction of the Alumni Association.

The league was started two years ago by John F. Dwight, master of the Thomas N. Hart School, with 150 boys who pledged themselves to refrain from all forms of tobacco until they were twenty-one.

FISH PRICE IS STILL HIGH; BEEF SOME LOWER

The Kansas jack rabbit, butt of a thousand jokes, hunted and killed in drives participated in by the combined populations of nine counties, rounded up in droves of tens of thousands and slaughtered simply to rid the lad of him, has come to his own. He sells in the markets of Boston today at $1.25 the pair, as compared with forty cents a pair for the native bunny. Epicureans in the East have decided that the jack rabbit is the eating, just as the westerners have at last decided upon exterminating the breed for his crop destroying propensities.

Lent is usually a season of joyousness for the fish dealer. This season has so far proved an exception to the rule and, while millions continue the same, the fish man will be as ready to don sackcloth as the most devout. The reason he has for this is that fish—that is, none to speak of. Since the beginning of Lent the arrivals of fresh fish have been just about 10 per cent. of the demand.

Must Keep Customers.

The consequence has been to advance the wholesale price to a point where the retail dealer must sell almost at cost for fear of driving away his customers. Halibut is selling for sixty cents a pound at retail and for fifty at wholesale. When the head, tail and fins are cut off the retail dealer is hardly getting out whole.

Yesterday the wholesale price of steak cod reached 18c, which is an unprecedented figure. To get a fair profit on this, after cutting the waste, the retail dealer must get at least thirty-five cents a pound for it, but few of them had the nerve to demand that figure.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Winter has been open and fishing, there is nothing to interfere with seining fishing, the delightful sleighing has come and gone, all the snow and ice melting for high prices. The record was reached today, when scrod cod sold as high as $1.25 a quart, more than double the usual price.

The price of beef has fluctuated quite a little of late, and just now it is a little cheaper. The prices asked for choice cuts are five or three cents lower than they were a week ago, but still high. The quotations in the big markets today are: Sirloin steaks, twenty-eight to thirty-three cents; porterhouse steaks, thirty-two to thirty-three cents; shoulder, twenty-six to thirty cents; rump steaks, thirty-eight to forty-two cents; loin roasts, twenty-six to thirty-two cents; rump roasts, twenty to twenty-four cents. The prices may drop a little more, but those who know the conditions say that these figures are not far from low water mark.

Plenty of Strawberries.

Strawberries are arriving from the Florida plantations in such quantities that there is some difficulty in handling them at prices which will pay the long and freight and give a profit to the grower, the commission man and the retailer, stood berries are selling for twenty-five cents a box and the very finest for 30c and 35c, and forty cents.

Rhubarb from the South is coming in, but one should not dream too fondly of rhubarb pies unless he is prepared to pay twenty to twenty-five cents a pound for the stalks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Eggs, always a favorite article of food during Lent, promise to be unusually plentiful and cheap this season, according to the New York Mercantile Exchange. Prime fresh eggs are quoted in the wholesale market at 26 to 29½ cents per dozen, as compared with 38 to 39 cents on the same day last year.

TODAY'S LATE CABLE NEWS

Boni de Castellane Appeals to the Pope.

ROME—Count Boni de Castellane is here again to petition the Pope for a revision of the decision of the tribunal confirming the validity of his marriage to Anna Gould, formerly the Duchess Talleyrand-Perigord. It is not likely that his appeal will succeed.

Hertford to Pay $37,500.

LONDON—The Marquis of Hertford's creditors today agreed upon a composition of 7s. 6d. ($1.82) on the pound. Liabilities are £20,000 ($100,000), mostly due to money lenders. The debtor, who has been known as the Earl of Yarmouth, married Miss Alice Thaw, who obtained a divorce.

Strassburg Joker Is Insane.

BERLIN—Wolter, the "two-one" who played the joke of having the entire Strassburg garrison called out to welcome the Kaiser, who at the time was at Koenigsberg, was discharged from the army for defalcation, not deserved punishment on the ground that he was insane.

Stock Prices; Financial News

There was improvement in the tone of stock markets at the opening. New York prices were higher and there was a better feeling all around. Boston started quiet, but the list was steady. Most local price changes were advances. A definite understanding of how the Harriman lines are to be divorced removed doubts which have been a check upon commitments. Price changes were narrow in early trading, however.

The London market had an irregular feeling. Imperial Germans' weakened consols and caused more borrowing from the Bank of England. News of Turkish peace talks inspired confidence, but the war is still a great drag upon speculation in Europe.

Millions more in gold were engaged this morning in New York for shipment to South America.

Ridder, Peabody & Co. have advanced sterling rates ½ of a cent all around.

The International Cotton Mills has been incorporated in Massachusetts with a capitalization of $21,000,000 to take over the International Cotton Mills Corporation of New York and the Consolidated Cotton Duck Corporation of Delaware. The new corporation will have offices in Boston and New York.

Market Effect of Dissolution.

The immediate effect of the announcement of the plan for dissolving the merger of the Harriman lines was good for the whole market and prices ranged higher in New York at the opening. As to which road will have the best is being discussed in all trading circles.

One prominent brokerage house says: "It appears to us that the Union Pacific has driven one of the best bargains ever made, and its earning power will not be seriously affected. As a matter of fact, the company is in a stronger strategical position than at any previous time. It is difficult to conceive with his view. The Southern Pacific Company has been receiving over $7,000,000 annually in dividends from Central Pacific stock owned, and where will this money come from now that the Central Pacific stock has been sold, or will be sold, to the Union Pacific?"

Copper issues were strengthened by the rise in warrants in London and also by bull anticipations regarding the Copper Producers' Association report. Amalgamated, Chino and Utah Copper were among stocks to advance. The whole Guggenheim group showed some gain, while Steel ¼, U. S. Rubber common ⅛, Union Pacific ½, Tennessee Copper ¼, Southern Pacific ⅛, Reading ⅝, Northern Pacific ¼, American Can ⅝, Colorado Fuel & Iron ⅜, Colorado Southern 1 and Pennsylvania ⅜. California Petroleum began ¼ lower, but recovered. Canadian Pacific was strong on London orders, rising ½.

The Curb was steady.

Americans in London were firm, especially Utah, Pacific, but Southern Pacific there was under New York parity.

Millions of Gold for Export.

The gold exportation movement was greatly accelerated today. This morning $3,850,000 was withdrawn from the New York sub-treasury for shipment to South America and the total for the last two days will exceed $5,000,000.

Up to last night gold had been engaged for Argentina on the movement to the total of $10,350,000, while Paris had taken $11,000,000. This week's shipments to South America will be by a steamship sailing tomorrow.

Big London Gain for Copper.

The copper warrants market in London opened strong with a big rise in quotations. Spot was up 12s 6 d and futures 10s 5d.

The rise in the London speculative market after bear drives for several days indicates that the attempt to force big American producers to make a big reduction in what they are asking for metal was a failure, although small sales at 15¼ cents a pound were reported in New York yesterday. Leading selling agencies were asking 16½ cents. Fifteen-cent copper was looked for by consumers, who have been keeping out of the market.

European stocks are said to be very low, but the buying there is limited. This is partly because of the Balkan war, but the uncertainty as regards the market price is also a factor. All over the world consumers are waiting for cheaper prices.

The estimated production of the refined copper by the Calumet & Hecla and its subsidiaries for January is 10,429,510 pounds, compared with 10,127,542 in December and 10,796,036 in the first 1912 month.

Financial News in Brief.

The United Cigar Manufacturing Company reports gross earnings of $2,706,853 for the year ended December 31, 1912, an increase of $616,472; surplus for year, $400,940, an increase of $252,427.

American Can Company bonds will be offered to the public at a price around 98. It is understood. They are callable at 102½.

Wire companies are doing a big business and many are falling behind in deliveries. A further advance in prices is looked for next month.

Atlantic Phosphate and Oil Corporation, incorporated in New York with $4,000,000 common and $2,000,000 preferred stock, is a consolidation of Atlantic Fertiliser and Oil Company, Meinhoen Fishing Company and the Neptune Fishing Company. It is said that men closely associated with the International Agricultural Corporation are interested in the new phosphate company. Plans include the erection of a large fertiliser factory at Montauk Point.

Stories are current in Paris that the financial position of Turkey is desperate. It can raise no money because it will not accept the peace terms of the allies. This shows "money is the sinews of war."

Grand Trunk directors at a meeting in London declared a dividend of 2½ per cent. for the year on the third preference stock. This is an increase of 1 per cent. over the dividend paid in May last for the previous year.

One Rock Island rumor is that the old preference in the matter of voting privileges would be abolished and the common stockholders put upon the same footing as the preferred.

An estimate of the value which Wall Street puts upon Southern Pacific stock to be released from the Union Pacific's treasury was conveyed by the sale on the curb of 400 shares of that security from 102¾ to 102⅞. Rights were disposed of as follows: Southern Pacific from ⅝ to ¾ of 1 per cent. and Union Pacific from ⅝ to ¾.

For 1912 the net earnings of the Gillette Safety Razor Company were $1,156,256, an increase of $222,627. Last month's net increased $35,119.

Mild weather last month was not reflected in coal shipments. January anthracite tonnage over principal roads was 6,336,419 tons. This compares with 5,763,-606 tons in the first month of 1912.

For the last quarter of 1912 the Boston & Maine reports a total operating revenue of $12,280,400, an increase of $849,195. The total operating income was $1,912,515, a decrease of $415,001.

The New York Sub-Treasury gained $1,-158,000 from the banks yesterday and has Friday has gained $6,050,000.

RUSH CONTINUES AT MECHANICS HALL MOTOR BOAT SHOW

With only one more day remaining for lovers of motor boats to see Boston's unqualified display, the crowds thronging Mechanics Hall make it clear that all interested mean to see the great exhibition before the doors close tomorrow evening.

The assortment of motor boats on display are pronounced without a parallel at any previous Boston show and more orders have been placed than ever before, a number of builders who are showing in Boston for the first time are faring particularly well, as are the engine and accessory manufacturers.

Captain Thomas Fleming Day will repeat his illustrated lecture on his transatlantic trip in the thirty-five-foot motor boat for the last time this evening.

SOCIETY WOMEN SPIN TOPS FOR DIMES

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—A little octagonal top that is spun with the hands and forefinger has made its appearance in Palm Beach, and added interest to an ancient game. Mrs. Raymond Whitman of Toxedo has one of carved ivory, inlaid with gold, and Mrs. Robert Cornfield Taylor of New York, another just as handsome. So has Miss Margarita MacVeagh of Washington. They and others carry them around in the sun beach, to the cockerels, on yachts, and in the ballroom, and spin them for dimes or greater odds.

SHE REFUSES ALIMONY.

DENVER, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Margaret Farmer obtained a divorce from John Farmer and was offered alimony. She refused to accept it.

SEEK SLAYER SUSPECT OF HINSDALE HERE

The Boston police today set their dragnet for Jack Wrenn, alias Ware, whom the Hinsdale, N. H., police want to question regarding the murder of James Stewart Hamilton, the young construction foreman, who was murdered in a lonely spot half way between Hinsdale and Brattleboro, Vt. Wrenn's wife and sick child are with him. The police have descriptions of all.

All outgoing steamers are being watched as Wrenn had announced his intention of going to Nova Scotia, his old home. The Malden police took a hand today, too, as it was reported he was going to see a brother, who, he said, kept a restaurant there.

The Hinsdale authorities believe they have sufficient evidence to warrant arresting Wrenn. Robbery or revenge is believed to have been the motive for the murder. They know that Hamilton discharged Wrenn and that Wrenn gathered and abused him roundly in the presence of other laborers. They know that Hamilton usually carried considerable money with him. Only thirty cents was found on the body.

Wrenn had more money than usual, the police believe, as he bought a motor boats just before taking the train for Brattleboro to Boston, and these motor boffins are considered a luxury that laborers as a rule cannot afford.

An autopsy was performed today on the body of the murdered man by Medical Examiner Faulkner of Keene. The head was battered in, as if by a pick axe or some. The nose above the body was found was besmattered with blood for a radius of several yards, indicating a terrific struggle had ensued before the young man fell before the blows of his assailant.

The Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins Corporation of Boston, by whom Hamilton was employed, has offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

Lincoln's Life IN Photographs

WILL be remembered when text-book lessons are forgotten. Every boy and girl, every parent and teacher in New England should get this volume.

Authentic Photographs & 20 Pages
Actual Size 14½x11½ Inches
Over 200 Illustrations

"THERE are many instances of his ready gift of humor. One day he and a certain judge began to joke about trading horses, and the judge declared that no one could ever get the better of him in such an affair. Lincoln said that he was sure he could, so it was agreed that the next day they were to exchange horses and the one who got the worst horse was to be the loser. At the appointed time the judge appeared leading the most miserable, half-starved animal ever seen in those parts. When Lincoln arrived, however, the onlookers shouted with laughter, for over his shoulder he was carrying a saw-horse. After gravely examining the horse brought by the judge, Lincoln confessed himself beaten."

GERMANY ROARS AT STRASSBURG GARRISON HOAX

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—All Germany is laughing today over the full-dress parade of the Strassburg garrison on the strength of a bogus telegram announcing a visit by the Kaiser.

The perpetrator of the hoax, August Wolfer, turns out to be an ex-sergeant, twenty-five years of age. He was recently discharged on account of alleged defalcations.

Accounts differ regarding the exact manner in which he carried out the hoax. Several versions allege that the telegram was delivered by Wolfer himself, disguised as a telegraph messenger, at headquarters to the Military Governor of Strassburg. Other versions say it was an open message and simply read:

Arrive at 12 o'clock. Am coming by motor car and proceeding to the Polygon parade ground. The entire garrison is to be alarmed. WILHELM.

The effect of the message was electric. Fife and drum corps were sent scurrying through the streets to sound the alarm in order that all officers and soldiers on leave should hurry back to quarters.

In the meantime fearful scenes were taking place in hundreds of Strassburg homes. Two persons were killed and many injured.

Hardly two hours after the bogus order arrived the entire garrison was assembled at the Polygon, 18,000 strong, including 18,000, exactly half an army corps, and their bayonets, helmets and lances shone brilliantly in the mid-day sun.

The ruse was made still more impressive by the appearance overhead of the new Zeppelin army airship to participate in the parade. Rumor presently spread that His Majesty was in the airship, and would land from it.

After the garrison had a throng of 30,000 spectators had waited on the field until 2 o'clock a council of war was held and it was decided that the ruse of police should hurry back to town and ask Berlin by telephone if any light could be thrown on the mysterious non-appearance of the Kaiser. Word came back that his Majesty was at the opposite corner of the empire at Kiel.

When the chief of Police returned to the Polygon with the information, it finally dawned on the military authorities that somebody had been fooled. The military procedure then experienced the garrison to execute some minor parade movements.

Among the latest reports of operators was the man Wolfer, who caused the parade to be held. He will have his arrest that he watched the march out and back. He will probably be sent to an asylum for the criminal insane.

HELEN KELLER, AS SOCIALIST, 'NO PESSIMIST'

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Helen Keller, the famous blind, deaf and dumb girl who spent most of her early life in Boston, lecturing in Montclair, N. J., as a Socialist, denounced the rich as willing to do everything for the poor but give them their rights. She urged co-operation by all classes, and cited her own career as an example. Miss Keller, who declared she was no pessimist, said:

I am going to try and make you feel that no one of us can do anything alone; that we are bound together. I do not like the word as it is, I am trying to make it a little more as I would like to have it. Perhaps you are thinking the blind I have been. You have your eyes and you behold the sun and the meadows more blind than I am.

It was the hands of others that made life tolerable to me. Without my teacher I should be nothing. We live by and for each other. We gave all blind and deaf until our eyes are open to our fellow men. If we had a penetrating vision we would not endure what we see in the world today.

The fault is not with the machinery belong to the few. All the work they do suits for the workers is not fit for food. Strange that we do not see it, and when we do we accept the condition in blind content. We fail to understand that if the workers were adequately paid there would be no rich people.

The rich are willing to do everything for the poor except give their rights. They say the workers are not yet thrifty enough. If the workers are not thrifty enough it is because it is not to the interest of those who profit by the poverty of others.

It is the labor of the poor and ignorant that makes us rich and comfortable. I am no pessimist. The pessimist says that man was born for darkness and for death. I believe that man was intended for the light and shall not die.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND, DAILY AND SUNDAY

GENTLEMEN OF THE TRANSIT BOARD—Please Tear Down Those Ugly Entrances to the Cambridge Subway and Give Us Something to Help Make the City Beautiful

A little grain of sand too small to be seen with the naked eye in the working parts of a machine will do it infinite damage. The smallest disharmony of color will sometimes flout the beauty of a fine prospect. In the development of a great metropolis effort is never lost which is directed towards the removal of the little grains of sand and making the city pleasing to all our senses.

A glaring excrescence on Tremont street is the structure which covers the entrances and exits to the Cambridge subway. No one of taste can approve of these structures in such a place. They were the first of the kind to be built by the Transit Commission, and it is often difficult to anticipate the harmony of an improvement with its surroundings by merely seeing it on the plans. It cannot be doubted that the Transit Commission now realizes that a mistake was made when these entrances were built.

The AMERICAN suggests that the Transit Commission take them down and erect in their place something more in harmony with the surrounding conditions. If the cost of the alteration must be borne by the Boston Elevated and cannot be made without its consent, it is possible that the Elevated will be willing to make this contribution to the general harmonic scheme of our city.

If the Transit Commission has not the authority, will it not appeal to the Elevated?

It Took the City Club Only Seven Days to Raise $200,000 for a Home, Because It Was "Worth the Money"

The Boston City Club has just performed a really wonderful feat. Its growing membership and faster growing quasi-public functions have made its present quarters far too small. It therefore decided to build a new home which would enable it to give the service and carry out the program upon which it has embarked. This building and land will cost $400,000.

IN SEVEN DAYS AFTER IT HAD ISSUED ITS APPEAL FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THIS PROPOSED NEW HOME IT HAD RAISED MORE THAN THE $200,000 REQUIRED FOR THE FIRST BOND ISSUE TOWARD ITS $400,000 HOME. The spirit which animates this club, the objects which it pursues, the character of its membership, the size of its membership, the character of its executive officers and the social and semi-public functions which it has assumed, make it one of the most unique, if not the MOST unique, club in the world. A widely traveled, observing scholar and man of affairs who visited the City Club recently, pronounced it unqualifiedly the most extraordinary institution he had met anywhere in the world.

Boston has good reason to be proud of the City Club, because the acknowledged high character of its large membership is evidence of the character of Boston's citizenship. The results of the activities of the City Club are greater than the people generally know. Its work tends to leaven for good the public spirit and enterprise of the city. Its social features are ever subordinate to the educational work among its members. Its regular lunches, at which the most important item on its menu is some food for thought on some important public or scientific or philosophical question, do a world of good to Boston.

Its cosmopolitan membership makes it a great clearing house and amalgamator of all varieties in our citizenship.

When we look back at Boston some years ago and then turn to look upon it at this day with a comparative eye, garrisoned as it now is with volunteer civic soldiers like the members of the Chamber of Commerce, the greatest business organization in the world; the Public Franchise League, the United Improvement Association, the Real Estate Exchange, the Boston City Club, we are bound to feel a glow of pride and confidence in the future of our metropolis.

The benefit which the whole community receives from the volunteer labors in these civic organizations is incalculable. Yet these soldiers in the contests of peace are not without their reward, for "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war."

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Permit me to add a few details on the subject of the present indefensible, decisive and dishonest constitution of the Civil Service, and in expression of the hope that our worthy President-elect will institute a rigid inquiry into the present state of affairs. This assuredly and like place in large numbers yearly. Men experimental "basers" imagine in their inmocent futility that positions in the Civil Service are permanent. On the contrary, they are far less so than are those in one of the service" at any moment. During mercial concerns. The best work is obtained for the very lowest, almost starvation, pittance. Increases promised yearly never materialize. Men engaged at $1000 per annum seldom get more than $1200, notwithstanding the excellence of their work, their humanitize character, and the fact that their maximum salary may be $1,400. The sword of Damocles ever hangs over their heads.

Men gray in the service of their country, who have given the best time of their lives and energies thereto, and who still possess all the vigor of youth, are, by fair or foul means, either reduced or discharged on the flimsiest pretext, by comparatively speaking, youths vested with brief authority, no appeal being allowed from the mandate of these modern disciples of tyranny.

Time is robbed from the employes by making them work overtime without pay and depriving them of their just and legal vacation, conceded by the statutes of the country.

Inequality is rife in all departments as regards vacation and statutory holidays, which, with duties, differ materially in all branches of the service. Defections by the wayside are numerous, hundreds of dollars are appointed to distant parts of the States, as well as to different positions, have to pay their own transportation, and may be transferred to other parts "for the benefit of the service" at any moment. During the term of probation a systematic course of spying is exercised by professional "Special Agents," and for the most trivial offence, after a man has been "fired," it may be months, if not years, before he can establish himself in some distant part of the continent, he is likely to be dispensed with on the lying statements of the aforesaid informers.

The Government Service is the worst service of any, the most tyrannical, and yet, possessing the finest, most perfect, and desirable body of men. Who are afraid to even think their grievances. Talk of "Russian autocracy!" This is a serious question. Where as any time on the flimsiest pretext, by comparatively will confront the attention of the Democracy, no appeal being allowed from the mandate of these modern disciples of tyranny.

Yours respectfully,

G. W. B.

Strength of William Faversham's Vocal Chords Is a Great Anti-Cigarette Sermon

At Request of Wife He Gave Up Smoking, and Now He Looks Five Years Younger—No Woman Can Be a Devotee of the Weed and Still Retain the Three Great Feminine Charms

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

WILLIAM FAVERSHAM has been a successful actor for twenty years. From being known as a "matinee idol" for a decade, he has during the last ten years risen to the distinction of being one of the greatest interpreters of Shakespeare our American stage ever held. Mr. Faversham has enjoyed good health, with the exception of a very sensitive throat. His voice has been called (like Bernhardt's) a "voice of gold." Its quality is remarkably beautiful.

Of course, the sensitive throat has been a serious drawback to his comfort and enjoyment in his profession.

Besides which it has cost him dearly in doctors' bills.

Now, Mr. Faversham, like most men of parts, has had his little vice. He smokes cigarettes. He was not a "fiend," but he smoked a great many cigarettes; and considered they were a solace to his nerves.

They helped him, he believed, to relax, after a strenuous evening; and helped him when he was studying his roles.

Just before he produced Julius Caesar his throat was bothering him, and his wife, Julie Opp, begged him to drop cigarettes for two weeks.

"I gave an impression," she said, "that they irritate your throat."

Of course, no lover of Lady Nicotine ever believed she had an injurious influence, and Mr. Faversham, loving his wife more than Lady Nicotine, however, consented to please her by giving up cigarettes for two weeks.

At the expiration of that time such a miraculous change had come to his throat, and, in fact, to his whole system, that no sensible man could longer question whether the habit had been harmless or not.

Mr. Faversham has come to the conclusion that cigarettes have been slowly and surely poisoning his system and lessening his powers as an orator, and injuring his throat all these years.

When he believed he was suffering from overwork and overstrain he was merely suffering from this nicotine poison.

He has gone through the tremendous strain of this great performance of Julius Caesar with less fatigue and less weakness in any part of his body than in any previous undertaking.

And with less expense in the way of doctors' bills.

Therefore, it seems to be only just to the world of boys growing up today to become actors or men of affairs to tell this story to the world at large.

It contains a greater lesson and one more practically useful than any sermon or lecture which could be delivered on the evils of tobacco.

Another result which has come to Mr. Faversham might be of interest to women who dote on their cigarettes, and insist on their being harmless. MR. FAVERSHAM LOOKS FIVE YEARS YOUNGER SINCE HE GAVE UP THE HABIT.

No woman can become a regular devotee of the weed and keep three great feminine charms—a clear color in the white of her eye, a perfect complexion and a sweet breath.

And smoking invariably adds a peculiar look of maturity, which is not becoming to the feminine face. No woman believes this, and few of her friends will tell her that it is so. Yet the fact remains.

And the change in the personal appearance of the handsome actor since he gave up cigarettes should be warning to women smokers, as well as a lesson to smokers of both sexes.

Give up your cigarettes for three weeks, young man and young woman, and see what result follows.

Of course, no one who studies human nature expects a man, and especially a man of "artistic temperament," to be logical and sensible—not persistently so.

Therefore, neither Mrs. Faversham nor the writer of this article (who has known him long and well, and with increasing respect and admiration) really expects Mr. Faversham to cut all ties forever between himself and Lady Nicotine.

Like others of his adorable but weak sex, Mr. Faversham will no doubt flirt with the brown-skinned fascinator, even after he has fully proved to himself that he is free of her chains, and after he has proved positively to himself that she is injurious to his best interests.

But at least he has learned his lesson, and he has been able to show what hardly one other actor before him has been able to show, that the difficult and vocal chord-straining role of Mark Antony in Julius Caesar can be played continuously, nine performances a week for two months, and leave the throat of the orator in perfect condition, and the voice stronger than ever. IF NO CIGARS OR CIGARETTES ARE USED.

Inhuman Attitude of United States Towards Philippines—600,000 Death Toll Shows Great Brutality—Boys Should Follow Straight and Narrow Path

Written for the Boston American by

DR. C. H. PARKHURST

FEW, if any, newspaper comments have been passed upon a statement made in the House of Representatives by Senor Manuel Quezon, Resident Commissioner from the Philippines, which shows how indifferent to bloodshed a country can become, even though it be a country supposedly as humane as our own, after it has for a term of years pursued a steady course of brutality.

In reply to a question put to him by General Sherwood of Ohio, Senor Quezon stated, on the authority of General Bell and reported by the present commanding general in the Philippines, that 600,000 men, women and children in Luzon alone have been killed during the war.

Shame on us! President Taft said at the Ohio dinner that we ought not to think of granting independence to the Filipinos for two or three generations, for we have not yet gotten them all Christianized. Did he mean to say Christianized or slaughtered?

To a great many of us Americans this whole Philippine business has been a burden and a pain and has cost us a sense of disgrace. This going about with a Bible in one hand and a shotgun in the other is a reproach not only to our country but to the Christianity of which we are supposed to be the national exponent.

When the killing began there went up a loud cry of protest, checked only by the bloody jingoism of the imperialists. But as time went on and the country became more and more deeply imbued with the blood of the poor pagans, the public became disgusted and horrified into silence or became morally debased to the level of the gross business to which it has committed itself.

It is the cry of whining hypocrisy to claim that we owe it to our own dignity and to the salvation of the Philippines not to abandon them, if by salvation we mean sending 600,000 to bloody perdition in order to make angelic harpists of the balance. In the pursuance of that sort of program there is not a suggestion of the Christian idea.

If we want to be Christian let us be Christian. If we want to be pagan let us be pagan and own up to it and not label our paganism Christian because it has been dangled over a Christian font.

When some gorilla-spirited Representative told Senor Quezon that we killed those 600,000 for their good, this ghastly pleasantry was greeted by the House as an admirable joke. Shame to the Texan that made it and to his bloodlapping colleagues that made themselves jolly over it!

There is no criticism to be passed upon the work done out there by the missionaries. It is fine and it is effective. But slaughter and gospel missions do not mix well, and to glory over the slaughter by adducing the number of conversions is to resort, to a quantity of whitewash that is quite insufficient to decorate so large a sepulchre filled with dead men's bones. Six hundred thousand men, women and children! And the war not yet over, with many Moros still to kill!

A RECKLESS PLEDGE

By N. P. BABCOCK

HER name was Angelina,
Her chum was Lucibelle;
Within their hearts no finer
Unselfishness could dwell.

They wandered o'er the campus
With elbows interlaced;
Did one adore a grampus,
The other praised her taste.

They promised when they married
They'd name the babe for each.
(Forgive a poet, harried,
This sloppy style of speech.)

They limited their pickings
To names their own names matched;
'Twas really counting chickens,
You know, before they're hatched.

Years passed. There came a letter
From Lucy to her friend;
Perhaps I can't do better
Than merely quote the end.

"I'm awful sorry, dearest,
Can't name him after you,
For 'Angel,' that's the nearest
Form of masculine, won't do.

Next, Angie's sweet confidings
Proclaimed her share of joys,
To Lucibelle came tidings
Of twins: "And both are boys!

"I'm awful sorry, darling,
My promise must be stretched,
For 'Lucifer's' appalling
And 'Belzebub's' far-fetched."

Meanwhile my dissertation
This big of gospel sums;
"The marital relation Takes no account of chums."
